Find 43 Bodies In Flood Zone; Rains Hamper Rescue Work

Nearly 100 Still Missing and Feared Drowned
HEAVY DAMAGE

New Downpour Swells
Streams in Mountain Region

Morehead, Ky.—(P)—Heavy rains throughout eastern Kentucky hampered rescue workers today as they sloshed through silt and debris in a search for the bodies of victims of a mountain flood that left scores of persons dead.

Ninety-three bodies have been recovered here and at Jackson. Nearly 100 persons still are missing and feared drowned by the wall of water which swept down the Licking and Kentucky river valleys early yesterday morning, following a cloudburst.

Sheriff Walter Deaton of Breathitt county said 69 persons were missing at Keok and estimated the death toll might be not less than seventy and probably more. W. I. Jones, Red Cross worker, said 18 bodies had been recovered in the county. Deaton estimated Breathitt's property loss at $1,000,000.

W. E. Crutcher, postmaster of Morehead, said the bodies of 25 of the reported 33 victims in Rowan county had been recovered. Creeks and streams throughout the mountain area were swollen again from a night-long rain and workers reported the heavy downpour hindered the hunt for missing persons.

Fear Higher Toll
Red Cross and other officials feared the death toll might mount to 100, basing their views on the fact many communities along the small creeks had not reported and won't until washed-out bridges were constructed or poor communications by wire restored.

Gaunt mountaineers, their wives and children's children went to bed Tuesday night untroubled by the impending treacher of streams that ran past their door, merely trickling at times.

About midnight the rain came in torrents. A few hours later walls of water, estimated by some to reach 20 feet in height, moved down upon the sleeping communities. There was not the slightest warning of the flood, survivors said. When it came it sounded like thunder—howling over houses, sweeping humans, cattle, hogs and automobiles alike.

Watch for Looters
Armed deputies and state police kept a watchful eye on the area because Mayor Edward Kely of Flemingsburg, 25 miles to the north, after a trip to Morehead said "some looting already has been going on." This town's population is 2,500 but is swelled during the winter months by students at state teachers' college.

The college, which was undamaged, is serving as a refuge for persons made homeless by the flood. Townspeople who survived the raging water, with expressions of faces, wearily shoveled the muck from their homes and business houses.

At Jackson, county seat of Breathitt, W. H. Pelfrey, hill country sheepkeeper, told how he watched his store and home swallowed by a 20-foot wall of water. His son and daughter-in-law lived with him along with their year-old son. When the house washed from its foundations his son took the baby in his arms and tried to swim to safety. Driftwood knocked the baby from him and the child has not been found. The father and mother made their way to safety.

College buildings of the Mountain Bible (Methodist) institute were carried away including a dormitory housing 25 boys and girls in Breathitt county. Nine pupils were missing. Three teachers battled the waters for two and a half miles before being rescued.

Injuries, the Red Cross reported, were negligible among the more than 100 homeless in Morehead.

City Can't Sell WPA Bathtubs

What to do with 200 bathtubs had the Memphis, Tenn. City Commission in a quandary recently. The tubs will come from houses razed for a housing project. WPA will allow the city to keep them as compensation for demolishing the building, but forbids their sale. Uses suggested include: For coal bins, sanitary fish ponds, gifts to relief clients. What to do with your unused articles lying about the house is easily answered. Let a Post-Crescent Want Ad move them for cash, like this:

State Announces It Will Begin Actions Against 2 Farmers for Disregarding Milk Price Law

The state department of agriculture and markets announced today it would start action in court here charging two farmers, William Rohan, Kaukauna, and Walter Klitzke, route 1, Appleton, with violation of the milk price fixing law. Rohan, former Democratic assemblyman, operates a farm on the outskirts of Kaukauna and defied the state department recently by announcing that he would sell milk at his farm for 5 cents per quart. He has been doing a brisk business the last couple of weeks. Rohan is in Madison and could not be reached today for a statement.

Klitzke, who operates a farm on W. Wisconsin avenue, has been selling milk at 7 cents per quart and 25 cents per gallon. He said this noon that no summons and complaint had been served on him. In addition to the milk price violation, both men will be charged with selling unsanitary raw milk and with doing business without a license, the department stated.

The complaint issued against Klitzke alleged he sold milk from a quarantined herd which had reacted to Bangs disease and had not been released, the department announcement stated.

Visited by Inspectors
Klitzke this noon said that recently two state inspectors visited his farm and that he had permitted their admittance. When they told him they had purchased some of his milk the day previous to use as evidence that he was violating the price fixing law, Klitzke said he answered them by offering to sell the milk at the price.

"I can't make any money by hauling it to the factory," he said, "and it is my business if I sell it at 25 cents a gallon. I don't ask anyone to come in and buy it."

Rohan also will be charged with denying access to his farm for sanitary inspection, the department said. Rohan said recently he had refused state inspectors admittance to his barn unless they had a warrant.

The department said it will ask injunctions against continuance of violations of the law.

Recently the department filed a complaint in Manitowish county circuit court against Joseph Lemberger, Michigot, and asked that he be enjoined from underselling in a regulated market.

Single Term Plan Turned Down by Judiciary Group

Senate Committee Votes
10 to 2 Against Wiley
Amendment Proposal

Washington—(P)—Amid current political speculation over a third term for President Roosevelt, the senate judiciary committee voted today a proposal to bar any president from running again.

Rejected by a 10 to 2 vote was a constitutional amendment asked by Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) which, if ratified, would present any one who had served as president or vice president, from serving in the same office again.

The committee also divided 7 to 7 on a proposal for a single 6-year term for future presidents and vice presidents. Senator Burke (D-Veb.) is sponsor, said it would not bar President Roosevelt from a third term.

After the tie vote on the "single term" proposal, the committee voted to report both proposed constitutional amendments to the senate with a record of the committee votes on each. A tie vote on a proposal defeated the amendment.

Says Bill "Stalled"
On the house side, the rules committee held a lively session on whether to give the Hatch bill, designed to ban politics in relief, right-of-way on the floor. Representative Dempsey (D-N. M.) asserted the bill had been "stalled long enough."

Representative Smith (D-Va.) wanted to know whether it would "prevent kids sticking his nose in a state primary."

"No, sir," said acting Chairman Celler (D-N. Y.) of the house judiciary committee.

"Then I've lost my interest," Smith said.

Before the monopoly committee Morton Bodfish of Chicago, United States Building and Loan League official, argued that new government agencies were not needed to encourage home financing. He proposed that the government get behind existing institutions in that field.

The senate labor committee heard from Earl A. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen that "destructive" amendments to the Wagner labor act might bring on an increase in industrial strife.

House leaders decided to postpone until next week consideration of a bill authorizing a library at Hyde Park, N. Y., for President Roosevelt's papers and books. It was scheduled to come up tomorrow, but leaders said too many Democratic members were out of town. The proposal has strong Republican opposition.

Faces Murder Trial In Hatch Slaying

Waukesha, Wis.—(P)—Circuit Judge Henry Lockney today ordered Edward Abel, 45, a resident of the Milwaukee Soldiers' Home, to trial July 24 on a first degree murder charge.

Lockney is charged with the hatchet slaying of Mrs. Olive Leroy, 76, of Milwaukee, at the home of his estranged wife, Margaret, in Waukesha June 2.

Former Convict's Story of Poker Game Renews Search For 2 Missing From Alcatraz

Oklahoma City—(P)—A former convict's story he played poker recently with Ted Cole and Ralph Roe, only to be ejected to vanish from Alcatraz, injected new mystery today into one of modern crime's most baffling cases.

Although no agent of the law has seen the Oklahoma desperado since he melted into the mist Dec. 16, 1937, Nat J. Peper, F.B.I. chief at San Francisco, admitted the search persisted in every bureau.

"But probably," he added, "the most active investigation is being made by the Oklahoma city F.B.I. office."

Noncommittal was Harold E. Anderson, F.B.I. chief here, but it was learned reliably that agents had questioned old-timers of the city, 33, at Shawnee and had been looking for Cole, 27, around Seminole.

Former Capone Gangster Slain

Officials Reveal Dead
Man was Backer of Illicit Alcohol Still

Chicago—(P)—Louis Schiavone, shot to death in his automobile yesterday, was revealed by federal authorities today to have been the "angel" of an illicit alcohol enterprise near Joliet, Ill.

As police sought a motive for the slaying in Schiavone's union activities, Ralph Herrick, chief of the enforcement division of the federal alcohol tax unit, came forward with the information that the dead man was the financial backer of a 1,000-gallon still seized Feb. 28 on a farm near Joliet.

Schiavone once was a member of the inner circle of the Capone syndicate. Herrick said he was to have been named in a conspiracy indictment with eight other men who were arrested when the still was seized.

Schiavone, 44, also known as Louis Massesa, was slain late yesterday afternoon while driving in Oak Lawn, a small southwestern suburb.

The assassin drew alongside Schiavone's car, poked a shotgun through a window and fired the blasts. The slugs struck Schiavone in the head, apparently killing him instantly. His car continued for 200 feet before jumping a curb and overturning in a ditch.

German Officials Study
Letters From England
Berlin—(P)—German officials have interested themselves in private letters received by Germans from England in which Chancellor Hitler's foreign policy is denounced and the defeat of Germany in another war predicted.

Informal German quarters hinted that some counter action might be taken. They said the letters were part of a larger British campaign to go over the German government's head and attempt to drive a wedge between it and the German people.

(For months the British Broadcasting corporation, controlled by the government, has been broadcasting daily German language news programs on regular medium wave channels, especially reporting of speeches by Prime Minister Chamberlain and others which the British government wants to get before the German people.)

McGuire sprang his story as he was being questioned about the slaying of Under Sheriff Ray Kump of Syracuse, Kans.

One Cole made his way safely out of McAlester, Okla., penitentiary in a laundry bag.

It was there that he met Roe, who tried to escape in a tightly-nailed box but almost suffocated and was forced to bang for help.

Both later wound up at Alcatraz. Roe to do 99 years for robbing a bank, Cole, bank, Cole to do a 50-year stretch for kidnapping James Rutherford near Cushing, Okla.

When in 1937 they vanished from Alcatraz, Warden James A. Johnston said one of the strongest ebbs of the year was sweeping by the island.

Jack Grear, an expert swimmer who breasted the more than a mile of current to shore in 1932 to show it could be done, said there was "not one chance in a thousand" they made it safely without aid.

But admittedly on the G-men's books, Kidnaped Cole and Bank Robber Roe are officially alive until they or their bodies are found.

Monetary Bill Is Forwarded To Roosevelt

Senate Restores Powers
Over Dollar by Slim Margin

BUYING RESUMED

Treasury Again Reduces
Its Price for Foreign Silver

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt signed into law today the bitterly contested bill restoring his power to devalue the dollar and giving new life to the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

Washington—(P)—A belated administration triumph in the senate put the treasury in a position today to resume silver purchases and official use of its $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund as soon as President Roosevelt could sign the hard-fought monetary bill.

Despite Republican arguments the action was illegal, the senate voted late yesterday, 43 to 39, to restore these powers and the president's authority to devalue the dollar.

The decision, reversing an earlier senate stand, was occasioned by a break in the unique coalition of Republicans and silver-state Democrats who had fought the dollar-devaluation power. Several silver-state senators made a blanket probe of all rumors and charges of unfair lobbying.

Action Blocked
When the Milwaukee senator asked unanimous consent today to have it considered at once, Republican Floorleader Maurice Coakley, Beloit, objected. The author then asked 14 to 13 vote was far short of the required two-thirds majority.

Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland referred the resolution to the committee on legislative procedure.

Assemblyman Genszmer was author of the bill involved in the "pay-off" accusation. It would forbid the use of red lights except for

Foreign Silver Price Again Cut

Treasury Reduces Quotation from 38 to 36 3-4
Cents an Ounce

Washington—(P)—The treasury slashed its foreign silver price today from 38 to 36 3/4 cents per ounce. Foreign silver buying was resumed at this level for the first time since last Friday.

The treasury price compared with today's spot silver price of 36.73 on the London market.

The differential between the two was so small that with shipping and other charges figured in, it would not be profitable to ship silver from London to New York.

Another London price will be set tomorrow. Some officials forecast it would drop sufficiently to allow a profitable shipping differential. But the treasury also will post a price at noon tomorrow. If it were desired to permit the world price to find its own level the treasury could again cut its figure.

Earlier today Secretary Morgenthau had said he was not considering any means of curtailing purchases of foreign silver, but experts in his department pointed out that continued lowering of the price would have the effect of curtailing. Low prices would discourage operation of mines having low-grade ore in other countries.

Norwegian Royalty Starts Return Trip
New York—(P)—Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha of Norway said farewell today to the United States after a 15,000 mile journey through 34 states, remarking:

"It's a big country you have. You can't see everything in ten weeks. We hope to come back again someday."

The royal pair, sun-tanned and smiling, boarded the liner Strananger for Norway.

The international situation, the prince said, "doesn't look very pleasant, but I still think it ought to blow over—of course, if hopes there would be no war."

The crown prince and princess, who arrived April 27, spent their last hour in New York unveiling a monument to Leif Erickson, Iceland traveler of the eleventh century, and inspecting the Norwegian training ship Christian Radich moored at a Brooklyn pier.

Buckner Gets 2 Years
And Is Fined $2,500
New York—(P)—William F. Buckner, Jr., cocktail and beauty lobbyist, was sentenced in federal court today to two years imprisonment and fined $2,500 for mail fraud and conspiracy in the manipulation of defaulted Philippine railway bonds.

Felipe Buencamino, convicted with Buckner, but only for conspiracy, was sentenced to 18 months and fined $5,000.

William J. Gillespie, convicted with Buckner on seven counts of mail fraud and one for conspiracy, was sentenced to 18 months and fined $2,500.

Senate Delays Vote on Move For Lobby Quiz

Gettelman Seeks Immediate Probe of 'Unlawful' Activities

'PAYOFF' CHARGED

Committee Accused of Taking Money to Vote Against Bill

Madison—(P)—Senator Bernhard Gettelman (R) Milwaukee, introduced in the senate today a resolution asking an immediate investigation of alleged "unlawful lobbying" around the legislature but failed in an attempt to force a vote on it.

Gettelman was stirred into action yesterday when word reached him that members of the state and local government committee, of which he is chairman, had been accused of accepting $200 from an unnamed source to vote against an assembly bill.

Heavily denying the charge, Gettelman called a special meeting of his committee yesterday and summoned Assemblyman Elmer Genszmer (D) Mayville to testify whether he had made the accusation to Philip G. Fox, Milwaukee attorney. Genszmer denied that he had.

At the same time Gettelman drew up his resolution calling for appointment of a five man committee of three assemblymen and two senators to make a blanket probe of all rumors and charges of unfair lobbying.

When the Milwaukee senator asked unanimous consent today to have it considered at once, Republican Floorleader Maurice Coakley, Beloit, objected. The author then asked 14 to 13 vote was far short of the required two-thirds majority.

Seven are Killed in Auto-Truck Collision
Scranton, Pa.—(P)—Seven persons were killed today in an automobile-truck collision at Daleville, 15 miles east of here.

State police said only one of eight persons in the pleasure car escaped death.

The crash occurred at an intersection of main highways.

The dead included three women, two men and two babies. Their small sedan collided with a 12-ton truck. The car, but several found alive a woman, passenger critically hurt physicians said she probably would die. The truck driver was only scratched.

20,000 State WPA Workers Staying Away From Jobs

Face Dismissal if They Stay Away Five Days

WARNING ISSUED

Union Members on Jobs
May Get National Strike Call

Washington—(P)—Colonel F. C. Harrington, works projects commissioner, instructed state administrators today to warn any WPA workers walking out on their jobs that they would be dismissed if they stayed away five days.

He sent this telegram to the state officials:

"In cases where groups of workers stop work in protest against requirements that they work 130 hours per month to earn security wage, it should be explained to them or their representatives that this is a requirement imposed by law and that no official of the works project administration has any authority to depart from it. Preliminary notice to this effect was required to be given to all workers in accordance with my telegrams of June 18 and July 1.

"Workers should be informed that decision rests entirely as to whether they desire to accept employment under the conditions under which the work projects administration can offer such employment."

"Those who do not desire to accept employment under these conditions and who absent themselves from work for five consecutive working days or longer shall have their employment terminated. Copies of this telegram should be posted on all project bulletin boards."

MAY CALL STRIKE
New York—(P)—Possibility of a national strike call to union members employed on WPA construction jobs developed today in the wake of walkouts by thousands of workers over the nation in protests against longer hours at a reduced pay rate.

The walkouts began—apparently spontaneously—Wednesday when all classes of workers were informed that, under the terms of the new federal relief bill, they would work 130 hours a month instead of from 50 to 80, for substantially the same monthly wage.

Previously skilled workmen received the prevailing basic union hourly wage.

Under the new schedule common laborers will get $55.20 a month.

Bill to Slash Auto License Fees by Half Engrossed in Senate

Madison—(P)—Automobile license fees would be slashed in half under a bill engrossed and advanced to ward passage by the senate today. The vote was 17 to 13.

Senator Zimny (D) Milwaukee, author of the measure, said it represented the platform pledge of his party in the last election. He told his colleagues that all political groups made similar promises.

He estimated the bill would cost the state around $3,000,000 in revenue from auto plates, but predicted an increase of $1,500,000 in gasoline taxes, with a final loss of approximately the same amount annually.

Opponents contended the cut would drain the highway fund which is proposed to furnish over $4,500,000 for old age pensions. By cutting license fees, which along with gasoline levies, provides the highway revenue, they said construction work would have to cease.

Indian Measure Is Approved by Senate
Washington—(P)—The senate passed and sent to the house today a bill extending the benefits of the employees compensation act to employees on the Menominee Indian reservation in Wisconsin.

Porter identified one of the victims as Albert Brashure, who had purchased the junked material in the mine.

The other victims were employees of Brashure.

The building once housed the fans that kept fresh air circulating in the mine.

British Government Acts to Provide Funds for Allies; Planes to be Sent to France

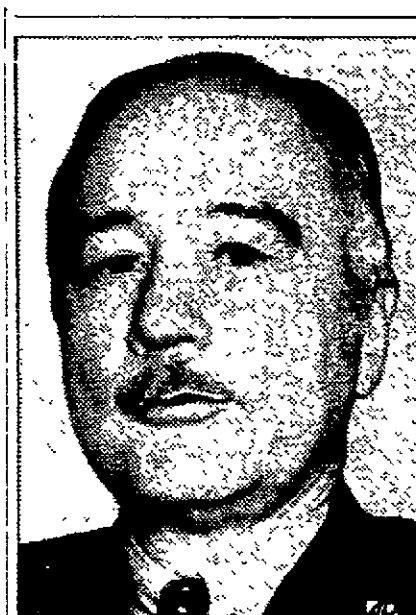

London—(P)—The British government proposed to give its allies more than treaties today by introducing a bill in parliament providing a credit fund of $50,000,000 (about $234,000,000) for purchases in the United Kingdom.

At the same time the air ministry announced that five squadrons of British planes would be sent to France to take part in Bastille day exercises July 14.

The credit fund and visits of warplanes to the continent had been reported in advance as among measures considered by the government to impress upon Germany the danger of any coup in Danzig.

It was understood most of the money in the credit fund would go for war material.

The government's move was approved at last night's cabinet meeting and was said to be intended

WARNS WORKERS
Colonel F. C. Harrington, works projects chief, today warned WPA workers that they will be dismissed if they stay away from their jobs for five days or longer.

Proposes State
Exploitation of Power Resources

Kresky Amendment Suggests 'Little TVA' to Control Wolf River

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Introduction of a substitute amendment proposing a "little TVA" corporation to exploit the power resources of the Wolf river today delayed state senate action on the bill proposing a charter to the privately owned Wolf River Reservoir company to control the flow of the Wolf for the benefit of Fox river industrial power plants.

The substitute came from Senator Michael F. Kresky of Green Bay, who was the principal opponent of the reservoir charter bill when it came before the senate last week.

The "Wisconsin-Wolf River Reservoir Corporation" proposed by Kresky as a public agency would have these purposes and powers:

1. To produce, distribute and sell electric power.

2. To acquire real estate and dams, reservoirs, transmission lines and other structures on the Wolf river, including the Menominee Reservation.

3. To receive federal, state, county or municipal grants of funds, to make loans from federal agencies, to carry out the purposes of the authority.

4. To construct dams and reservoirs, as shall be needed for the development of a public power program in the area.

Amendment to Bill
The Kresky substitute declared that:

"It is the declared policy of the state to distribute and sell the power generated equitably among the

Blast Kills 4 Men At Abandoned Mine

Uniontown, Pa.—(P)—An explosion of gas in the partly demolished fan house of an abandoned mine at nearby Tower hill No. 1 killed four men today.

George Porter, manager of a community store, reported an acetylene torch which the men had been using to remove junk iron from the building apparently ignited the gas seeping up the mine shaft.

Porter identified one of the victims as Albert Brashure, who had purchased the junked material in the mine.

The other victims were employees of Brashure.

The building once housed the fans that kept fresh air circulating in the mine.

Other 'Holidays'
Madison had one project closed with about 150 men idle, about 10 workers were closed in LaCrosse county, affecting about 900 workers. Eau Claire had about 300 workers idle on three projects. There were about 75 to 100 idle at Wisconsin Rapids.

Sheboygan reported most of the WPA workers there returned to work today after walking off jobs yesterday.

At Manitowish, Roy Palmer, president of the Workers' Alliance, advised WPA workers against striking at this time

New Regent Board Being Planned in Wisconsin Senate

2 Parties Express Intention of Passing Rothe Measure

Madison — (P)—Republicans and Democrats in the senate indicated today their intention to pass the bill of Senator Edward Rothe (R) Fennimore, creating a new board of regents to supervise the University of Wisconsin.

The measure would eliminate the present board of 14 members and establish a new nine-man body without any restriction as to political affiliation, farm, labor or other special representation.

Efforts by Progressives to kill the bill, largely on the ground that the new appointments would rest with Governor Heil, were defeated 19 to 13 by intervening business, which had been scheduled as a special order, prevented a vote on engrossment.

Rothe's proposal, originally called for nine members to serve terms of six years each. He introduced a substitute, which was adopted, extending the terms to nine years. An amendment by Senator Maurice Coakley (Rep.) Beloit, struck out a provision that no one political party could have a majority among the members.

Rothe's View
Another amendment by Senator A. J. Connors (R) Barron, which would have required appointment of at least four farmers, was defeated 18 to 9.

Rothe contended his plan would remove the regents from politics completely. He said the existing board is too large to function efficiently and that university affairs are now being run by a few regents because some members seldom attend meetings.

Coakley argued that a restriction on political affiliation was unnecessary, asserting that persons to be appointed would be of the type who have no particular brand of politics.

Disagreeing with these views was Senator Philip Nelson (P) Maple, who argued that the only purpose of the bill was to allow Governor Heil to make nine appointments and thereby "plunge the board of regents into politics up to its neck."

Risser's Charge
Senator Fred Risser (P) Madison, charged the governor had openly proclaimed himself "an enemy of higher education" and should be given no control over the board.

Rothe replied that the requirement for senate confirmation of the appointees, who would be named thirty days after the bill becomes law, provided assurances for the highest type of regents.

A majority of members on the present board were appointed by former Governor Philip LaFollette.

House Riots Probe
After a brief flurry of debate the assembly rejected by a 68 to 22 vote yesterday a resolution directing University of Wisconsin regents to investigate alleged use of intoxicating liquor by students on and about the campus.

Speaking in opposition to the measure, which was introduced by Swanson (P) of Ellsworth, was Assemblyman Biemiller (P) of Milwaukee, Catlin (R) of Appleton and Spearbraker (R) of Clintonville.

Speaking to Swanson who claimed beer liquor had been used in an educational institution, Catlin characterized the measure as the "stillest" of which he ever had heard, stating that the school term had already ended and "there is nothing to investigate now."

Biemiller questioned the legislators' legal right to go through students' rooms and said the regents could not forbid the use of beer and liquor to the university students, most of whom are not minors.

Says Regents May Act
Spearbraker said he believed the regents could "handle" any problems of the university.

A bill repealing the law requiring vocational and high schools to offer courses in marketing, conservation and consumer education was defeated by a vote of 70 to 10. Vigorously opposed by Progressives, it had been introduced by the committee on excise and fees at the request of Marketing Associations, Inc.

The assembly adopted a resolution by Hammergren (R) of Cochrane directing Governor Heil to proclaim the week of Aug. 6-12 as soil conservation week.

Passes Bills
The assembly passed and sent to the senate bills:

Prohibiting any state or local governmental department from selling merchandise except meals and safety equipment to its employees.

Allowing towns, villages and cities to establish tax compromise boards to adjust personal property taxes delinquent before July 1, 1939.

It killed measures:

Providing for transportation of parochial school students living between 2 1/2 and 6 miles from schools; Amending the constitution to legalize lotteries for the purpose of obtaining revenues for old age assistance.

It failed to concur in a senate measure:

Allowing the state treasurer to destroy useless beverage tax division documents, correspondence and reports.

The assembly deferred action until next Wednesday on the administration's $28,000,000 tax bill.

City has 17 Traffic Accidents in Month
Seventeen accidents with six injured were the traffic record for Appleton during June, according to a report of Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the police traffic division. In June last year there were 19 accidents with 5 injured. To date this year there have been 108 accidents with 2 dead and 22 injured. For the same period in 1938 there were 104 accidents with none killed and 34 hurt.

Fifty-eight motorists were granted driver's licenses during June.

'Dead' Chick Lives At Bottom of Mine

York, S. C. — (P)—Fifteen months ago Frank Rhyhan threw several small chicks, apparently dead, into a 30-foot abandoned gold mine.

He heard a clucking in the mine yesterday, he said, and brought to the surface a full grown hen he found at the bottom of the pit.

Rhyhan said she was all right except the light hurt her eyes.

Goodland Denies Rev. Allen Eddy Will be Boycotted

Says Clergyman Who Invoked 'Wrath of God' To Pray Again

Madison — (P)—The Rev. Allen Eddy of Madison has not been the subject of a legislative "boycott" and will be invited to deliver the opening prayer for the senate when his name is reached on the regular list of chaplains, Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland announced late yesterday.

Senator Harry Boiens (D) of Port Washington demanded last week that the clergyman's name be stricken from the list after Mr. Eddy in his benediction June 27 invoked the "wrath of God" upon lobbyists and legislators who thwarted the people's will.

Members of the Madison Ministerial association wrote Goodland Monday stating that before they would answer the senate's invitation to pray they would have to have guarantees of "freedom of expression."

Goodland declared he thought a senator had "as much right to criticize what a preacher says as a preacher has to criticize what a senator says," and added that "as far as we are concerned there is no boycott of the association and if they want to start a boycott it is up to them."

Goodland said Chief Clerk Lawrence R. Larson would continue to invite the 60 clergymen on the regular list and when Mr. Eddy's name was reached he would receive an invitation.

Larsen explained he had told Mr. Eddy not to return the day following the incident in order to avoid "creating a scene." The clergymen usually are asked for two days in succession. They receive $3 per day.

Yesterday the Rev. A. V. Grace of St. Patrick's catholic church recited a portion of the Lord's prayer for the senate.

Children's Books Placed on Shelves At Public Library

Among new books recently placed on the shelves in the children's department at the Appleton Public Library for children under 10 years of age is "Abraham Lincoln," by D'Aulaire. It is an introduction for children of one of our most beloved Americans, a very human Abe Lincoln.

Other new books include: "Roscoe" by Bechhold, a story of what happened when Roscoe took his baby sister to the zoo to see the baby panda; "Mrs. Peregrine and the Yak" by Burns, a story of what Mrs. Peregrine did to erase the war from the face of the yak at the zoo; "B is for Betty" by Haywood, a tale of the funny and serious experiences of a first grade pupil.

"Nododemo and the gang" by Hogan, a story of the gang's difficulty in trying to get the clubhouse built; "Old Hank Weatherby" by Honer, gives a picture of the kind of life on a New England farm; "The Story of Ricker" by Johnson, an appealing story of the adventures of an air raid puppy on a farm; and "Songs and Pictures For Little Folks" by Knowles, a collection of songs with photographs by Ruth Nichols.

Wins Suspended Term In Prohibition Case

Green Bay — (P)—J. B. Brockman, 56, an attorney and former mayor of DePere, Wis., was given a suspended sentence of one to three years and placed on probation in circuit court Wednesday on charges growing out of a raid by state prohibition agents on his farm more than six years ago.

Brockman was arrested after state agents raided a still on a farm rented out by Brockman. A jury found him guilty on charges of having the still on his property. Circuit Court Judge Henry Grassie set aside the verdict, however, ruling that the warrant on which the still was based was illegal. Agents had testified they smelled mash cooking and secured the warrant in that evidence.

The state prohibition department appealed Judge Grassie's ruling and recently the Wisconsin supreme court overruled Judge Grassie and upheld the jury's verdict.

EASTERN KENTUCKY HOME LEFT ON TRACKS BY FLOOD
People went to sleep in this house at Morehead, Ky., little dreaming of impending disaster. But clouds during the night caused a "flash" flood which picked up the home and deposited it on the railroad tracks. There was wreckage everywhere in Morehead and 38 persons were reported drowned. The death toll over the whole flood area might reach 100.

Settlement of Tyroll Problem Proves Differences Still Can Be Adjusted by Negotiations

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York — (P)—Repatriation of some 200,000 former Austrian subjects who were taken over by Italy when that country annexed Austria's southern Tyrol at the end of the World war will tend to remove what has been a grave danger-spot to Italo-German relations.

Bitterness between the German Tyrolese and their new rulers has run deep ever since the war. And as long ago as 1935 Herr Hitler, who made himself champion of German minorities, took a hand in support of this so-called minority, which actually claimed a majority in its own district.

When the Nazi chieftain made known his intention to reincorporate in the Reich German peoples on his borders, many of the Tyrolese jumped to the conclusion that they would be included in the sweep. Rome, too, speculated unhesitatingly on the possibility that Germany would try to annex the south Tyrol, especially after the annexation of Austria.

The situation, so far as the Berlin-Rome axis was concerned, was vastly eased when during Hitler's visit to Rome, he then swore all claims to the south Tyrol. That went a long way to remove Italian uneasiness, but there still remained the problem of dealing with the Germans in the Tyrol, and they were a decided handful.

For nearly 20 years Rome's attempts to Italianize this district had been met by stubborn refusals of cooperation. Non-cooperation is a pretty hefty weapon, as Gandhi, India's powerful spiritual and nationalist leader, has demonstrated in his battles with the government.

Then Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini got together and agreed to a plan whereby Germans in the south Tyrol would be transferred to the Reich. Mussolini waived any claims Italy might have to citizenship on these people, and they were to be permitted to decide whether they wanted to remain in the Tyrol or go "home." Italy also undertook to give the emigrants financial aid.

Carry Out Plan
This looked like a solution of the long-standing difficulty providing it were made effective. The big feature from the Italian standpoint was that with the elimination of the Germans from the Tyrol, the Nazis would be unlikely to make territorial claims in this region.

Implementation of the agreement is under way. Several thousand Germans already have gone into German territory, and presumably the rest of the 200,000—or as many as wish it—will follow as fast as it is possible to move such a great colony.

Quite apart from the political appeasement, the transfer of these people, and their settlement in new homes, will provide an interesting and valuable study to other states which are faced with problems of this nature.

Many observers and statesmen have been inclined to regard this Italo-German arrangement as an indication that international differences still are susceptible to adjustment by negotiation—provided all parties concerned are prepared to give as well as take.

Everybody Satisfied
In this instance the background for negotiation was about as unfavorable as one could imagine. The Tyrol Germans charged that the efforts at Italianization were so sweeping as to be forbid, for example, German kindergarten students to speak the language of their parents, but to compel them to use Italian, of which they were ignorant. It was further asserted that all German street signs were ordered replaced by Italian, and even the use of German marks on hotel linen were forbidden.

It was only four years ago that there was a bitter fight between the Berlin and the Rome Press, when the Germans alleged that many persons had been shot in the Italian Tyrol.

The Italians vigorously denied the employment of repressive measures against the Germans. Still, it was natural that the bitterness between the two peoples should continue to grow under the circumstances.

Now it would appear that the German minority will once more be under German rule. Signor Mussolini will keep the south Tyrol, and Herr Hitler will have made good his promise as champion of his folk.

Illinois Woman Found Slain in Her Bedroom

Jacksonville, Ill. — (P)—Her throat slashed and a bullet wound in her right side, Mrs. Josie Shawen, about 50, an employee of a state hospital for insane here, was found slain early today in the bedroom of her apartment.

Police Chief Frank D. Kiloran said there had been no evidence of robbery.

The killing was discovered about 2 a. m. today by Mrs. Wiley Shawen, the slain woman's daughter-in-law, who lived with her husband in the apartment.

The Shawen apartment, close to the Jacksonville business district, was a mile and a half from the state hospital.

Mrs. Nelson has long been an active Republican party worker in the tenth congressional district. The other members of the board are B. A. Mjelde, of Stoughton, and Miss Josephine E. Maloney, of Milwaukee.

Cupid Has Busy Month, But Breaks No Records

While June was a busy month for Dan Cupid, he didn't break any records in Outagamie county. During the month 80 marriage licenses were issued at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, as compared to 72 in June last year and 101 in June of 1937. The month was, however, the busiest one thus far this year. There were 72 marriage licenses issued during May.

Griswold Rites To be Conducted Friday Afternoon

Congress Pays Tribute to Deceased Member From Wisconsin

Washington — (P)—The capitol's flag flew at half staff yesterday as arrangements were completed to hold funeral services Friday afternoon at West Salem, Wis., for Representative Harry Griswold (R-Wis.) who died Tuesday of heart disease while driving his automobile in Washington's holiday traffic.

A committee named to represent the house at the funeral services included Representatives Schafer (R), Murray (R), Hull (P), and Johns (R), all of Wisconsin. They will accompany Mrs. Griswold and the body back to Wisconsin.

Representatives Hawks (R) and Keefe (R), now in Wisconsin, also were expected to attend the last rites at the West Salem Presbyterian church at 3 p. m.

Announces Death
While Mrs. Griswold was receiving messages of condolence from congressional leaders and Wisconsin officials, announcement of Griswold's death was made to the house yesterday by Schafer who praised him as a man of "exceptional character, exceptional ability and devotion to public service."

Schafer blamed Griswold's diligent, conscientious service as a legislator for his "unexpected death."

"In his zeal, he disregarded physical limitations of an ordinary man and laid down his life as a sacrifice on the altar of his country's welfare," Schafer said.

Griswold was serving his first term in congress as representative from Wisconsin's third district. "Great Loss"

Representative Martin (R-Miss.), minority leader, said he was "shocked to learn of the death of Representative Griswold. Although a new member he had won all by his fine character, his industry and his devotion to the public welfare."

"Wisconsin and the nation have suffered a great loss," he said. "He was a good man and a good man will be missed," declared Representative Rayburn (D-Texas), majority leader.

Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), describing Griswold as "one of the ablest representatives," said he was long recognized for his public service.

"It is a tremendous loss to the Wisconsin delegation," added Representative Bolles (R-Wis.) who said "there was universal regret among all members of congress, both Democratic and Republican, who had a high opinion of him."

Madison — (P)—The legislature today adopted a joint resolution by Senator Paulsen (P) LaCrosse, praising the late Representative Harry Griswold (R) West Salem, for "a splendid career of service."

"Representative Griswold was prominently known at Washington as a hard worker. In his daily life he was thoughtful and courteous toward others. In civic affairs his steady judgment, analytical mind, ability to judge values and quiet leadership won continued confidence and support of his community."

"For his capacity for fair dealing, sane leadership and assumption of responsibility toward his community, state and nation, the public now recognizes a splendid career of service."

Gardner Dam Scouts All Will Eat in Main Lodge Mess Hall

Boy scouts of the valley council will find a few changes when they come rushing eagerly into Gardner Dam, council camp, for another outing in the upper Wolf river country.

They'll find, for example, that the two mess halls across the river are no longer to be sought at meal times; that all the scouts will eat all their meals in the main lodge building.

The dining hall has recently been done over in knotty pine. It will seat about 125 young campers, which is ample accommodation.

The two mess halls up on the hill will be turned into living quarters for scouts. Bunks and other equipment will be installed. Clarence H. Engberg, valley council executive, has pointed out that this will eliminate much of the tentage at the camp, giving the youths more comfortable quarters.

Engberg will occupy the camp director's lodge, just behind the Minner camp, and the leaders will live in the Minner buildings.

Ready for thirst-quenching by the time camp opens will be a new well that is being drilled near the Minner camp.

The number of horses that the scouts will ride over the trails has been increased to 10 this year. The usual activities, such as swimming, baseball, volleyball, ping-pong, and others will be running full blast during the camping period.

Council Approves Completion of 2 Remaining Courts

Hatten Park Will Have Four in All When Work Is Finished

New London — The completion of two more tennis courts at Hatten Recreation park was authorized by the city council at a regular meeting last night. Two of the original four have been finished but the courts have become so popular that more are demanded by players. The courts will be finished with fine limestone with a view to asphalt surfacing later. The work will be carried on by the city park crew in its spare time to cut development costs to a minimum.

A total of 579 paid admissions were recorded at the Hatten park swimming pool in its first week of operation from June 22 to 30, according to a report by Alderman William Lits, chairman of the park board. Six season tickets were sold at $3 each and rentals amounted to $1.60, providing total receipts of $7.50.

The report of Victor Thomas city building inspector, showed new building in the city of New London amounting to $12,310 during the second quarter of 1939. Permits were issued for five residences totaling $10,700, three private garages for $400, one store remodeling for $500 and other improvements reaching $710. Fees amounted to $30.

Bids on the tinning of the city hall roof were rejected pending an investigation of the cost by day labor. Estimates will be made by Thomas. Two bids were entered for the work, one by the Milwaukee Maintenance company for $660 and one by E. H. Ehrenreich of New London for $718.

The purchase of wood on an 80-acre lot offered by C. R. Brown was deferred until a more thorough inspection of the wood available can be made.

K. of C. Is Winner In Softball Loop

Defeats Elwood Tap Rooms, 8-7, at High School Diamond

New London — Knights of Columbus won their first game in the second half of the City Industrial Softball league 8 to 7 in an exciting battle with the Elwood Tap Rooms at the Washington High school diamond last night.

Charlie Nader allowed but four hits to the Tap Rooms while C. White tossed nine to the K.C. The Tap Rooms tallied three runs on errors in the fifth and a home run hit by Anton Herres in the sixth brought two runs and put the boys behind only 7 to 6. They tied the game in the seventh but lost out in the eighth when White walked two men and gave two hits. White passed a total of five walks, Nader four.

Friday night Gambles and Borden, the two league contenders tied for first half honors and both undefeated again during the second half, will tangle in a feature contest.

Read a Book, Catch a Fish Aim in Contest

New London — "A-fishing we will go" is the theme of a new summer reading club which will be organized for children at the New London Public library Friday afternoon, according to Miss Grace Fleischauer, librarian. All children from first grade on to six are eligible to enter the contest. Designed as an imaginary fishing trip, the readers will secure a fishing license by reading their first book. The second book will entitle the reader to a pole and the third to a line. Each book thereafter will add a gaily colored fish to the line and the boy and girl with the largest catch will win. The fish poles and catches will be kept on display in the children's department at the library during the progress of the contest.

Girders for New Pearl Street Bridge Arrive

New London — The last two giant girders for the new S. Pearl street bridge span over the Wolf river arrived yesterday. Construction of forms for the north concrete abutment were completed today and the crew plans to pour the anchorage Friday and Saturday, according to the bridge superintendent. Laying of the steel girders will go forward rapidly with most of the south half steel structure already in place.

New London — Guy Siegel, New London farmer, suffered severe lacerations about the head and numerous leg and body bruises when a team of horses ran away on his farm Tuesday morning. Siegel was riding first at the time and the horses got out of hand when a whippetree broke. Twelve stitches were taken in his scalp at the office of a New London physician.

Six tables of schafkopf were in play and prizes were won by Miss Edna Kloehn, Mrs. Arthur Felsner and Mrs. Oliver Kloehn; Frank Huebner, Clarence Kloehn and Emil Magadan.

Miss Caroline Theiss returned to her home at Western Springs, Ind., today after visiting a week at the Henry Ziener home.

It Is Said--

That two New London shoe repairmen are staging a private feud. Last week one of them advertised women's half soles and heels at a special of 69 cents. When the price remained on his shop window for a week, another repair man, a block down the main street, chalked a price of 69 cents in his shop window. Next morning the first advertiser dropped his price to 55 cents. Before noon the window of the first displayed the price of 49 cents. The second said he'd go to 40 cents if he had to. Today a truce apparently was reached. Both repair men washed their shop windows.

That one adult in the New London area learned that fire crackers on the Fourth of July can be as just as dangerous to grown-ups as to children. Alden Smith, a member of the New London Golf club who lives at Shiocton, suffered severe burns and lacerations of three fingers on his right hand when a giant cracker exploded in his hand while he was shooting fireworks at Springdale course Tuesday evening. His injuries required the attention of a physician.

Battle Being Waged Against Stem Rust

Waupaca — County Agent Quick declared Wednesday that the county's war against black stem rust is progressing. He stated that any one doubtful of the ill-effect barley bushes have on grain should visit the Del Anderson farm "where a few plants of barberry have infected a ten-acre field of wheat." In addition to this plant disease, he says, "similar diseases like the blister rust of white pine are being eradicated" by removal of currant and gooseberry bushes adjacent to the pines.

Council Adopts Ordinance to Ban Fourth of July Fireworks

New London — The sale and use of fireworks, except for public display with special permission, was abolished in the city of New London by the adoption of a new ordinance by the common council at the city hall last night.

Hereafter the citizens and children of New London will be required to celebrate the Fourth of July in a quiet and peaceful manner without the benefit of private fireworks of any description. The ordinance was passed unanimously with little argument.

Another new ordinance condemning dense smoke and soot as a public nuisance was held up for consideration. Aldermen and G. O. Krueger, manager of the Elwood hotel, pointed out that the Borden Milk Products company appears to be the worst offender and Mayor E. W. Wendlandt was instructed to write the district general superintendent of the company at Madison in an effort to have the condition rectified. The mayor reported that the district superintendent paid a personal visit to the city last week in response to a request for action and promised full cooperation.

An amendment to the recently adopted beer ordinance was voted to remove the clause requiring a $5 license fee for the retail of soft drinks. Long in effect but never enforced, the clause was incorporated in the new ordinance and will be removed in an amendment to be drafted and presented at the next meeting.

Tavern operators licenses were granted to William Nanske, William Walmer, Francis Burton, Floyd Dudley and Matthew Burton.

PREXY WAS A GREAT TEACHER

The suggestion that a monument be built to Prexy Yellow Kid Smith of Louisiana may spread like wildfire if this "100 per cent true and faithful follower" of claimed new ideas in government, most of which are as old as brigandage, speaks a Russian part by coughing up clear down to his toenails.

The immediate unearthing of another $500,000 rake-off on public contracts is but a soft scratching of the surface. The program of "spread the wealth" was taken most realistically by others than Prexy, but they didn't spread it too far which would have been foolish.

Mr. Leche, just resigned as governor because of arthritis, may really have broken his leg carrying a heavy satchel which wasn't loaded with stones. Leche, who went into office a poor man, "retired last Monday with an ample fortune reckoned in the millions," to quote one correspondent who was on the spot. Mr. Leche says he made his fortune honestly. They all do.

But Leche, who, according to the best evidence available, had the blessing of the dying Long, celebrated his advent into office by approving a brand new sales tax, which was a swell way of proving the truth of "every man a millionaire."

As usual, there were a few who were thick enough above the eyebrows to believe Huey Long's preachments were possible. And they have served an excellent purpose by diligently gathering evidence of payroll frauds, payroll levies, university trucks carting materials to build homes for politicians and a lot of other slimy stuff by the gentry who started off fooling the voters just because they are so easily hoodwinked. Always it has been that the people who were to be made kings and millionaires have been stripped down to bare backs and bare feet. But it was their own fault. Make no mistake about that.

When the rogue Kingfish roared "every man a king" he meant Everyman in a Pickwickian sense. Everyman doesn't mean all men. Each word must be understood according to its application. In the politically scientific sense Everyman is limited to those who can think, talk and act faster than the ordinary man can appreciate what is being said or may happen. Thus Everyman refers only to superior men. The fault isn't with Huey the Rogue, nor the rascals who succeeded him, but with those toothless lunks who didn't comprehend the meaning of his words. And the gang had the alibi of a fast way out because, hadn't they already furnished "free text books" to the people?

Many will sympathize with Prexy and the other enlightened gang leaders who have toiled and moiled to get the people with bent heads to look up and learn something. It looked bad for the common run as soon as they started cheering over those "free text books," but applause is contagious and as the wise-cracks from the Neros became bolder and wilder the applause turned into a deafening roar. No man can protect his pocket-book very well while clapping his hands.

And so, there is the towering newly constructed university with Huey's monument on the campus and an airplane in the hanger, and there are the bills and the falsehoods, the indictments and the barred cells; while over yonder are the people, barer of material things than ever, even their tobacco pouch empty, and they bear on their shoulders a few millionaires created by their assinine credulity. But that isn't all. There is something more. For in spite of the glittering gifts from Washington after the leaders kissed the Roosevelt rod, there are the debts. Aye, there are the heavy debts.

And if this all sounds like a story written for little Goldilocks let it be known that there is no story about it. It is just a scientific certainty from start to finish, and just as clear, profound and positive as the law of gravity or of centrifugal motion.

Prexy Smith was doing no more than demonstrating as one might in chemistry or physics. If you don't believe that water is a good conductor of electricity just try it.

THE FIFTH OF JULY

With over 600 dead in the country the celebration of the Fourth of July turns into a funeral march on the fifth just as the stirring peans of freedom melt into a wailing dirge.

Of course we couldn't have any national celebration at all without accidents. Even if the motor remained undiscovered horses would run away, children and adults were bound to be thrown out and often seriously injured or killed.

The fact that drowning was the cause of the second largest number of fatalities should give us further cause to reflect not alone upon our national carelessness in carting ourselves swiftly over the highways but in the impulsive and reckless nature with which we go about even a little simple boating or a simpler matter of casting a line.

To be both accurate and realistic we should set aside the fifth of July to mourn over the casualties of the Fourth.

A GERMAN PASTOR

Martin Niemöller, a Lutheran pastor, is being crucified by the Hitler government. It is now two years that he has been in durance vile. To be able to truly value the Berlin government it may be best to review a few of the facts in relation to him.

Niemöller was one of Germany's greatest and most clever submarine commanders during the World war. He thus served in one of the most hazardous and painful arms of the service, what might be called the suffocation chamber. After the war he studied for the ministry. He is the father of seven children and has lived a blameless life unless his friction with the Nazis amounts to crime.

Niemöller became an object of attack because after the dispute between pastors of the Confessional church and Nazi authorities had developed he delivered an address or sermon which seems to have enraged those who had the arm of authority over him. He prefaced this sermon with excerpts from the fifth chapter of Acts, telling how the apostles were taken before the Council in Jerusalem and asked to explain how in spite of a strict ban upon their teachings they had persisted in spreading the gospel of Jesus. Niemöller then related Gamaliel's intercession in behalf of the prisoners in which he expressed a wish for a leader of renown, "clever enough to listen to reason, pious enough to exhort to reverence of God, decent enough to call for truth." Then spoke Niemöller as follows:

"We have as little thought of wilfully evading the hand of the authorities as had the Apostles of yore. Nor are we, any more than they, ready to heed orders given by men to keep back what God bids us to say. We abide, and shall continue to abide, by this rule: God must be obeyed rather than man. Thus it is today as it was then; and in this situation the counsel of Gamaliel (to the authorities) is a wise counsel, for it is unwise to create martyrs in a cause where one wishes to conquer."

Several days after this sermon the pastor was arrested and confined to prison for a period of about eight months, when he was tried by a people's court that found him technically guilty but suspended punishment for the reason that he already had been sufficiently punished. After Niemöller walked forth a free man the secret police disgusted at the court, rearrested him and for the seven intervening months he has been imprisoned without charge, of course without bail, without arraignment before a tribunal, without a chance for a trial, even without the expectation of ever securing a trial.

We have just witnessed the case of an American woman, Mrs. Rubens, imprisoned in Russia for 18 months without a trial and without specific charge, although it is likely she committed an offense. When wrongs of this awful nature may be inflicted without any recourse whatever, the crime of the rulers extends much farther than the immediate parties involved, as they are expected to extend.

The treatment of Niemöller is a deliberate act aimed at cowering millions. It may or may not accomplish that purpose.

With Niemöller the Nazis have a man who is being slowly molded into a martyr. They selected the wrong one. They apparently picked without due consideration because they have a man with a record of high patriotism, a blameless life, and who speaks nothing but calm words, but words so determined they ring like steel.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE BRIDE'S MOTHER

Never by one faint whisper has she thrown A shadow on her daughter's happiness. She has not spoken of long hours alone, Or sighed because the days are growing less.

Entering into every plan, she smiles Upon young love that blossomed in her sight. She puts the thought of the dividing miles Out of her mind and shares today's delight.

And when the happy wedding day draws near, She will not harbor any gloomy guest. Her daughter has, for many a bright year, Been here alone, and Love has made her blessed.

She cannot weep, nor will she when the hours Cast their dark shadow on a lonely wall. Her vast selfishness rears noble towers, Sustaining her, and bringing joy to all.

Opinions of Others

RIVALS IN COTTON MARKETS
Who can measure the results of any Federal policy on the people of this country after what has followed from the destruction of crops and food five years ago? It was in the spring of 1933 that congress passed the first AAA bill and under the 1934 adjustment contracts 15,000,000 acres of land were withdrawn from cultivation of cotton and tobacco. Brazil, among other countries, began to increase its cotton acreage. In the 1932-1933 crop year Brazil produced 480,000 bales. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in its latest issue of Textile Raw Materials traces the rapid extension of

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York—One of the things people write to me about how to sell songs. Every other American citizen, as near as I can figure, has a song or two up his or her sleeve, and all of them feel that if only they can get a publisher to have a look, everything will be hunky-dory. There is no short cut to the hit parade. Merely knowing song publishers or orchestra leaders won't do the business. Why, I even got the song writing bug myself. I dashed off what I am sure was as good a tune as Stravinsky's Firebird Suite—a bit of a ditty called "I Met Yvette at the Met," so what happened. Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Publishers listened to it and yawned, but loud.

A lady came to town the other day from Asheville, N. C., however, and maybe her system is the one we've been looking for. She is Miss Aleita Albert, who teaches dancing in Asheville. Miss Albert, as I get the story, was enamored of the Hawaiian melodies of Maestro Ray Kinney. She had never heard his orchestra in person, but had all his phonograph records.

Miss Albert got an idea. She took the titles of Kinney songs, routine them in rhyme and wrote a tune to the resultant lyric. She called it "Hawaiian Memories." The young lady figured it wouldn't do much good to send her manuscript to the Maestro, so she decided to make a phonograph record of it. She got a 15-year-old high school boy, Tommy Johnson, to sing it, and another fellow to play the steel guitar accompaniment.

The record was made. Miss Albert brought it to New York. She looked up Kinney and told him about her song. Naturally he could see no harm in giving it a listen, which he did; and it sounded swell. He told her he would add it to his repertoire and that is why one of these days "Hawaiian Memories" may become a hit.

Maybe that isn't the way to get your songs a hearing, but it worked for Aleita Albert. The young lady, however, had an extra special argument which might have impressed Kinney. "What is the highest rating a song can get from ASCAP?" she asked. "The highest rating," Kinney replied, "is AAA." Miss Albert beamed. "Aleita Albert, Asheville," she said, triumphantly. "That's A.A.A."

Art Item: The newly opened Museum of Modern Art on West 53rd Street had a mysterious visitor the other day. The fellow wore a raccoon cap and buckskin coat and carried a business-like squirrel rifle in his arms.

"I want to see the pictures," he told the girl at the desk.

The young lady, cloistered there among the Finer Things of Life, trembled violently. She visioned this Daniel Booneish fellow taking pot shots at the art treasures. Yet she couldn't think of much to say. Finally she stammered: "Yes, sir. May I check your—er—parcel?"

Daniel Boone looked around himself for a parcel, mystified. At last light dawned. "Oh, you mean this hair rifle," he said. "Sure enough, sister, sure enough." And meekly handed it over.

The gentleman doubtless was one of those vanishing Americans of the West where saloon-keepers often required the customers to check their shootin' irons at the door before leaning up to the bar; and in those days about the only "art" to be viewed was a cover from a Police Gazette picturing some Queen of Burlesque, which was pasted conspicuously on the bar.

Checking firearms also was required in New York as early as a decade ago. I was palsied, in a cagious sort of way, with a lug who belonged to the Dutch Schultz mob—the mob that stopped at night, including murder. He told me that whenever the "boys" had a meeting with "the Dutchman," as Schultz was called, they all had to check their pistols at the door. "There was enough killing in our business," he explained, "without running any chances of having the boys shootin' each other socially."

Now July comes and Grover A. Whalen's World's Fair will leave it's true what they've been saying about July being a business haven't happened in New York this Fair year just as the wise ones predicted; that is, business didn't leap forward like an unleashed greynound. Therefore, they changed their story and said: "When July comes, there also will come the admissions." Now July is here.

There was a healthy upkick in Fair business late in June, but many concessionaries in the amusement area are still gnashing their teeth. One of the larger places was whispered to be operating at a loss of $10,000 a week. Smaller spots were just getting by. In contrast to the mediocre attendance at most amusement places is the Aqueduct, which has had to add an extra show a day, making four altogether, and which repeatedly sells out its evening performances.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 9, 1914

Ringling Brothers circus was to show in Appleton the following day. The first train was scheduled to arrive at 4 o'clock in the morning and a parade was to be given at 10 o'clock. Tents were to be erected at the old fair grounds on Second avenue near N. Division street.

All house-moving records were believed broken the previous day when a crew of four men under the supervision of Anton Stadler and aided by one of the new Killen-Strait tractors, moved a large 6-room home 14 blocks in 24 hours.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 4, 1929

Miss Helen Willis gained the finals in defense of her British tennis championship when she defeated Miss Elsie Goldsack of England in a match at Wimbledon.

Mayor A. C. Rule's veto to the common council resolution calling for the construction of a storm sewer on Brewster street from N. Meade street to N. Division street was overridden by the council by a 9 to 2 vote at the city hall the previous evening. Estimated cost of the project was $40,000.

At the weekly tournament at Butte des Morts Golf club Wednesday, Miss Gertrude Plank won the low net event and Mrs. L. J. Stafford, Neenah, and Mrs. F. McNamara tied for low putts. Mrs. W. H. Nelson, Menasha, won the bridge prize.

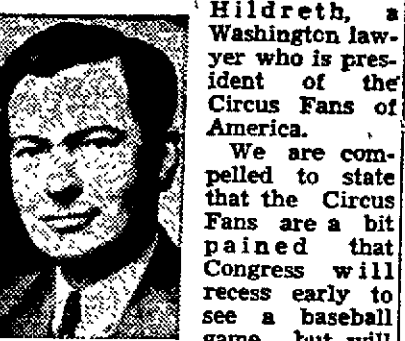

Brazil's cotton trade. By the season of 1936-1937 production had risen to 1,824,000 bales, and last year it exceeded 2,074,000 bales.

The consequences have been felt in foreign trade. Last year Brazil was the most important source of cotton imported into Germany. In 1934 Germany bought about 99,000 bales of Brazilian cotton; last year it bought 377,275 bales. In 1933 Japan bought 375 bales of Brazil's crop. By 1938 its imports of cotton from Brazil had risen to 200,000 bales, and last year were 277,450 bales. Total exports of cotton from Brazil last year exceeded 1,239,000 bales, and Germany, Japan and the United Kingdom received more than three-quarters of it.

United States exports of raw cotton last year were somewhat more than half of what they were in 1933, and in no year since 1933 have exports been within 2,500,000 bales of that year's total of 8,532,000 bales shipped abroad. Brazil has become one of the most important of the world's sources of cotton, even though its highest annual production has been only one-sixth of that of the United States last year.—New York Times.

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington—We promised not to write about war today so that is why you are talking to Melvin C. Hildreth.

ling Brothers comes to town. We do not own any stock in a circus, so this plug goes for nothing.

Nevertheless, since the circus has recently been to town we can report that a goodly number of congressmen go to the circus, although they are not a major source of revenue. Washington is a good circus town in the spring, as Mr. Hildreth will tell you, although for some reason or another you can't bring a circus here any other time of year and make expenses.

Bringing a circus to Washington is no small task. In an ordinary city you go to the mayor or to the city attorney, post a bond and get a license and maybe a parade permit and that is an end to it. But in Washington circuses have to deal with two governments, not to mention irate citizens.

Double Protection
To rent a piece of public property on which to pitch a tent requires negotiating with Secretary Ickes. The interior Department owns all the park property hereabouts. Sanitary inspection and approval of electrical installation comes from the city government, but the circus has to hire its ground policemen from Secretary Ickes. For policemen to handle the crowds on the streets outside the circus, city police must be sought.

And a further trouble is lions. There is nothing so disconcerting to the average Washingtonian as to have a lion roaring under his window. But do they call the city cops about it? Nay, nay. They call a member of congress.

The circus here had its lions and elephants all boxed up for the night on one side of the yard right across the street from a row of houses. The neighbors didn't mind the elephants, but in the middle of the night a lion roared. Lions are just like congressmen. When one lion roars they all roar and it causes quite a noise.

Next night the circus moved the lion wagons over to the other side of the park, several hundred feet away from the houses, a change requiring no end of circus rearrangement.

Things Look Good
Mr. Hildreth is jubilant about the prospects of a good season for circuses, but we might just as well tell you that he was the same way last year and the circus business went pot in double time.

Ordinarily the Circus Fans of America work principally for perpetuation of regular road circuses, but lately they have interested in WPA in supporting a WPA circus in New York. Hildreth is almost fearful about the old gray-haired clowns and acrobats "on the road" again, some of them for the first time in a dozen years or more. The circus sticks pretty close around New York, charging 15 to 25 cents admission.

It has an animal act which included an elephant until a few weeks ago. The elephant got a job, however, and took his keeper with him.

We'll bet congress will get fidgety as everything when it learns WPA has an elephant. They will maim each other to be the first to get into the Congressional Record with some crack about a WPA white elephant.

Just a Step
Behind the News

By Dave Boone

The novel theory that Mr. Roosevelt won't be serving a third term, even if he is elected for it continues to be advanced. A week ago, Bob Jackson said Franklin was just serving his first term as the other one was cancelled by the supreme court opposition. Now Senator Joe Guiffey tells the radio world that the president's second term don't count either.

Joe says that Roosevelt's seven years have been so stymied by the fact there has been opposition to him that he hasn't been president at all and can come out for a first term on a simple plea that he would like to know how it feels to have a little power.

Maybe there's something in the theory. If so, then we can scratch a lot of presidents who are on the record as having held the office. Abe Lincoln could be thrown out on the ground he was hampered by a war, Washington could be cancelled on the ground he didn't get everything he wanted, and you could say Woodrow Wilson was never really in the White House when you consider all the terrific troubles and tough fights he had to endure.

Franklin D. Roosevelt will run again in my opinion and he may win. But he knows he has had two terms. And so do the voters.

POLLY WANT A PAR?
Louisville, Ky. —(AP) A kibitzer with a falsetto voice unnerved players at a golf course.

The eerie sounds seemed to come just when golfers were preparing to swing. They stood it just so long, then set out to find "the voice." In a nearby tree they found a parrot which had escaped from its cage at a house not far away.

The owner explained "polly" had a double-voice.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said "winning forces of America" extort and collect a daily tax of more than $41,000,000.

STILL KEEPING THEM IN SUSPENSE

Under the
CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Did you know that:

Congressman Joshua Johns of the Eighth district has been criticized by some of his Republican party associates in the Fox river valley for his support of the Townsend bill in congress and his record vote in the house on the measure recently?

Johns' action, say the Republican associates, has embarrassed them no end. One result has been that Johns has distributed throughout the district an extremely long mimeographed explanation of his vote in attempted justification.

Former Speaker Paul Alfonsi, Progressive quarterback in the assembly, is regarded as the best card player in the legislature? He likes particularly to match his skill against political opponents, such as the Republican leaders who beat him regularly in floor maneuvers during the day.

It can be marked down that R. W. Peterson wants very dearly to run against Senator LaFollette next year. The Republican lower house whip has cherished that ambition for a long time, is now trying to arrange his personal affairs so that his candidacy can be made known before the field becomes too crowded.

Senate Supreme
Early this year, when the state legislature was assembling in the capitol for the biennial session, this column noted that despite Governor Heil's forecast and decisive personality, his term might show that the legislature is as important as an executive office in determining the acts of the new administration.

That prediction is being realized these days, as the state senate continues to rebuff the governor on important issues as the result of the spirited independence of some of the Republican members.

It is becoming a tradition that the state senate in Wisconsin sets governor's plans. In the 1935 session the senate balked LaFollette schemes; in 1937 he won out, to a degree, only because he was able to make attractive offers to two key men of other parties. This year, although the Republicans were elected in the heaviest landslide in years, the governor finds that he doesn't possess enough votes to put his program through the senate in the form he wants it.

Two Republican senators, particularly, Shearer of Kenosha, and Gettleman of Milwaukee, insist on making up their own minds, and helped on occasion by others, and Democrats who are independent at the times that the administration needs them most, they have doomed several of Heil's plans.

Shearer is probably the most independent senator in the house. ## Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BRINGS MISERY

Twenty-five years ago I said, in an article, titled "The Bridegroom's Health Certificate."

"It is impossible to present accurate statistics bearing on the prevalence of venereal diseases among men, but a conservative estimate is that at least one out of every three men acquires gonorrhea or syphilis before marriage, and a large percentage of these infected men transmit the disease to their innocent wives after marriage. . . . the terrible frequency of venereal disease is alone sufficient to warrant the prospective suitor's health certificate."

A young man of upright character ought to obtain and offer his health certificate voluntarily as a preliminary to his engagement. Numerous newspapers, even in that early day, had the courage to print most of the article with little or no editing. But I did not escape some stern reminders for offending the delicacy or modesty of a certain class of refined people who, I understand, read some newspapers, but whom I have never met in person.

Reverting to that article of May 11, 1914, it appears I took the bit in my teeth and let 'em have it: "Doctors know full well that the very parents who most fear to mention these things to their children, have children who most quickly learn half-truths and untruths from their companions. Let the subject be taught in the schools."

How much progress has been made in the quarter of a century since outstanding educators advocated sex instruction in the common schools?

Several states now have laws requiring persons who apply for marriage license to pass a test showing that they are not infected with venereal disease. In some states the law specifies only a test for syphilis. Well, that is all right as far as it goes. But an individual may have no syphilis yet be a dreadful menace to the race, for it is gonorrhea that brings misery and unhappiness to so many young wives, leaving them sterile, incapable of bearing children; it is gonorrhea that makes so many mutilating operations necessary, weeks or months following the birth of the only child—leaves the family afflicted one-child sterility; it is gonorrhea that causes serious eye inflammation of the newborn and too often blindness in consequence.

Pre-marital examination law or no law, I repeat what I said in 1914:

"A young man of upright character ought to obtain and offer his health certificate voluntarily as a preliminary to his engagement."

Today I'd amend the advice to read:

"A young man of common sense ought to do so, for surely no man, whether he has ever had any venereal disease or not, would wish to contract a marriage likely to bring disaster, and no man with a spark of human conscience or tenderness of heart would wish to give his prospective wife or her parents or guardians a moment's anxiety unnecessarily."

Planning to spend a year in Mexico on a survey. What suggestions would you make in the way of prevention of diseases to which a visitor in Mexico may be exposed?

Answer—Be vaccinated against smallpox, immunized against typhoid and paratyphoid. See that any water you drink outside of the larger cities is boiled. Avoid raw vegetables or fruits, as in salads, except fruits or vegetables pared or peeled by yourself. Carry quinine capsules or tablets, and take three two-grain doses a day to prevent malaria. Carry tincture of iodine and put two or three drops in a quart of water, let stand twenty minutes before drinking. If you have to drink water out of the large cities in an emergency. Cooked food is always safest.

Embargo on U. S. Arms Could Hurt England's Chance in War

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—In an article in the American magazine, Herbert Hoover draws forth out of his memory a traffic picture of the horrors of the last war and lays it before the American people, only one-third of whom, he says, are old enough to remember the World war well. He recalls the disillusionment that followed the war, the peace that brought no peace, the line-up now of the same old forces for a new struggle. Mr. Hoover does not believe we should sit in that game, either in the interest of the other democracies or in ours. We should stay out.

Few will disagree with those general statements. But when we begin to think down into the details of how to stay out, questions arise. How do you stay out? Would it were that easy!

Suppose Hitler pulls the trigger in the next few weeks. Britain and France will want every airplane they can buy from the United States. They will need them—need them badly. Shall we sell them, or not? We will have to decide that question if war comes. We are trying to decide it in the neutrality debate, but some senators and representatives are so determined to oppose Mr. Roosevelt, no matter where he stands, and others are so ready to play local politics with the question that congressional debate tends to confuse rather than to clarify our thinking.

Real Question Is Whether To Sell to Britain, France
Germany and Italy would be blockaded and they couldn't get our airplanes if we wanted to sell to them. So the actual question is whether we shall sell to Britain and France. Suppose we refuse to sell any direct arms, ammunition and implements of war—as is provided in the automatic arms embargo now on the books.

We saw in the last war that these supplies were essential. The allies almost lost the war as it was before we got in. By withholding our planes and arms, we would leave Britain and France considerably weakened and possibly in danger of defeat.

Do we want to do that? Do we want to see the British empire smashed in defeat as the German empire was smashed at Versailles? Singapore turned over to the Germans? The whole British navy heavy allied purchases here we built up a large investment in allied victory and when that was endangered in 1918, we found an excuse to go in to rescue the stake, or to save the British empire. But our declaration of war was made possible because of several years of propaganda which gradually created enough public feeling to sweep us in. It took a long time to work this country up to that point, and we were much more glibly then about saving the world for democracy than we are now.

If we don't sell, we risk the danger of seeing the world power of the German-Italian-Japanese combination replace that of Britain and France to our disadvantage. If we do sell, we risk being sucked into the war.

Of the two, the latter risk seems the more practical one to take. It is one over which we ourselves have the control. It is within our power to stay out. The risk of defeat for Britain and France in event we shut down on munitions is a risk that would be out of our hands. We would have to sit and see it happen.

If we are sucked into another war, it is more likely to be through inflammatory indignation over bombing outrages. If we are going to be swept in on some such wave

Maybe your car has that sluggish feeling. It doesn't take the Green Lights as it used to. Those nasty little knocks start pounding away. You're burning a lot of oil. You're not getting nearly the miles per gallon you used to.

costs a single dollar bill. And your money will be refunded if you don't think the treatment's worth it.

Here's the Whole Story!

You can't keep carbon out of an engine. Excess carbon fouls your plugs, builds up on your piston heads, gums up the valves and piston rings.

Maybe you think your car needs a valve and carbon job. But you hate to spend $7 to $40. You hate to take the time:

Pure Oil's Solvenized* Tune-Up Treatment (with Purosol) is the next best thing. It can be done while you wait. It

Mile after mile that carbon keeps piling up, glued on with a thick, gummy "binder."

SAFEST CITY IN U.S.—Evanston, Ill., finds new Pure Oil Solvenized* Tune-Up Treatment the best way to keep its squad cars tuned up to peak performance.

FREE UNDER-THE-HOOD INSPECTION—This is done by your Pure Oil dealer at same time as the Solvenized* Tune-Up Treatment. This check, at no extra cost, may save you future time and trouble.

Science can't dissolve carbon, but our laboratories have discovered the way to dissolve the gummy binder that holds the excess carbon and causes the trouble. Dissolve the carbon-binder—then the excess carbon loosens; blows out the exhaust.

That's what Pure Oil's new Solvenized* Tune-Up Treatment does. It "cuts" the gummy binder, much as soap cuts grease when your wife washes dishes. At the same time, it has a soothing, lubricating action on valves, pistons, and piston rings.

Immediate Results

It not only has an immediate effect on motor performance, but its cleansing action continues as you drive—giving you its fullest benefits after 15 to 50 miles following the treatment.

Naturally this Solvenized* Tune-Up Treatment will not overcome mechanical defects, but it will help to bring out all the power and performance that's in your motor.

Specifically, look for these improvements:

- Less carbon knock
- Smoother running motor (listen to h "purr")
- Increased gasoline mileage
- Less oil consumption
- Faster pick-up
- A lot more driving fun.

Council Buys Two Squad Cars, Bike For Marking Cars

Mayor Goodland Again Warns Aldermen to Curtail Spending

The city council last night traded two police squad cars and $335 for new Fords from the August Brandt company and paid $488 for a 3-wheeled motorcycle to be used in marking parked cars.

The motorcycle contract went to the Arndt Cycle company, Appleton, which will furnish a Harley Davidson machine. The new machine is expected to release three men for other duties. Aldermen Frank, Thompson and Vanderheyden voted against the purchase. Alderman Frank voted against the purchase of the squad cars.

The decision to buy Ford squad cars came out of a committee of the whole meeting which remained private although the arguments might have been heard a block away. The committee originally had decided to recommend the purchase of Oldsmobiles from the Dutcher Motor company.

Last night before the council meeting, the committee met again and then decided to leave the choice of squad cars up to the council. Other bids were offered by the Dutcher firm and the Tri City Motor company.

Warns Of Spending
Coupled with last night's spending was a warning from Mayor Goodland to go slow on future spending. He told the council to expect a $20,000 drop in the estimated receipts from state income tax. The mayor reminded the council that the contingency fund is depleted because of the construction of a new city hall.

The council authorized the mayor and comptroller to borrow up to $5,000 as needed for the park board to meet expenses in the parks. The board's original fund is wiped out because of the extensive WPA program in the parks including the construction of a stone building at Pierce park and other improvements which cost about $9,000 plus the WPA appropriation.

Aldermen voted to advertise for two carloads of chlorine for the sewage treatment plant and for the use of a power shovel to be used in street work.

Argue About Oiling
The only argument of the evening on the council floor came when the street and bridge committee recommended the oiling of Jefferson street over the protests of property owners.

Alderman Knutti told the council it should consider the objections of the property owners on the street, all of whom had petitioned against oiling.

Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, explained that the street needs oil as a follow up of the work done last year. He said the street was gravelled free of charge.

Alderman Grignon said the people on the street want the oil but they want it without cost. As chairman of the committee, he finally revised his report and included Jefferson street among those streets which will not be oiled.

The council authorized the purchase of a traffic line marker from the Savlon company at a cost of $238.50. The marker will replace another machine being used by the street department.

Accept Machine
Aldermen voted to accept the "South Bend" oiling machine which has been in use for the last month in the city. The machine was given to the street department a chance to try it out on actual work.

The city engineer was given permission to purchase 30 drums of crack filler at 14 cents per gallon. The city will use the filler on Locust street, between Locust and Third streets, and on the sidewalk on Locust street.

NEW PARK BOARD MOWER MOUNTED ON TRACTOR

Here is the Appleton Park board's new power mower and tractor, which was used for the first time last week. The machine's cost was about $1,200. It is operated by one man which releases the rest of the park crew to take care of shrubbery and other work in the parks. The grasscutters, three of them, are 36 inches wide and make it possible to cut a swathe 90 inches wide. A hydraulic lift raises the mowers to allow the tractor to climb curbs when cutting boulevards. A cycle attachment makes it possible to cut high grass. The plow snow on park walks and drives. In the picture are Edward Wolf, the operator, and Harold Jerke, left, superintendent of parks. (Post-Crescent Photo)

City Officials, Firemen in Grudge Battle Under Lights

The city officials' softball team will get a workout in a practice game with the firemen under lights at 8 o'clock tonight at Spencer field.

The game will be played primarily to gain experience in playing at night in preparation for the night game Sunday with Fond du Lac city officers at Fond du Lac. However, the firemen want revenge for the 19 to 18 defeat at the hands of the officials one night last week.

The game will be a 3-tinged circus for laughs for when the officials and the firemen get together on a softball field, the fun is sure to be there. The public is invited to see the show.

The officials will show Claude Greisch, Alderman Bogan on the mound with Alderman McGillan or Ted Albrecht behind the bat. Earl Gartz and Joe Drexler will divide hurling duties for the two sides.

Both Mercury and Humidity are Well Over Normal Level

The hottest temperature of the year, combined with extremely high humidity, today had residents of Appleton and vicinity mopping their brows, fighting off an inclination to let their work slide, and sipping cold drinks.

Perhaps even more significant than the temperature of 94 degrees recorded early this afternoon was the humidity reading of 87 reported this morning from the instrument at the Schlafer Supply Co. The humidity ratio recorded today was nearly three times as great as the 30 or 35 reading which is normal for warm summer days.

Observers of the humidity recording device said today they have never seen it remain at as high levels as it has the last two days, indicating that the Appleton people who have been calling the weather "close" and "muggy" have their complaints well founded.

Dropping to a 24-hour low of 69 degrees at 4 o'clock this morning, the mercury surged upward during the morning. It hit 88 at 9 o'clock and was just about at the 94 level at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Hardly a breeze stirred and flags slumped from their poles.

The weatherman predicted cooler weather for tomorrow, with cloudy skies, cheering those who have suffered from the wave of heat and humidity.

Dodge City, Kansas, reported the nation's high reading yesterday, 104 degrees. Helena, Mont., had 103, the lowest reported.

Aldermen Ignore June Checks on $250 Wage Basis

Controversy Over Legality Of Salary Referendum Continues

The aldermanic salary controversy continued this week when Appleton's 18 aldermen again ignored their monthly checks issued on the basis of $250 per year.

Although talk about the salary situation has died down, the issue still is a live one for aldermen have not collected their wages since April 18, the day the new council was seated.

Councilmen's wages were cut from $500 to $250 per year through a referendum in the April election when the electorate voted 3 to 1 for the reduction. The aldermen got together and since that time no alderman has accepted his check.

The council on May 17 unanimously adopted a resolution ordering the comptroller and city treasurer to pay aldermen on the basis of $500, the old wage scale. However, the officials refused and said they would continue to pay on the basis of $250 per year until the issue is settled in court.

Favored Resolution
The resolution carried the signatures of the 18 aldermen and when the roll was called, all 18 favored its adoption.

Since that time, the aldermen have been checking the legality of the referendum and its possibilities of standing in court. However, no action has been taken officially and nothing has been said about the controversy at a council meeting.

Up to April, each alderman was paid $500 per year plus a fee for those who served on the board of review. No remuneration was given for committee service. Since the referendum was adopted by the people, checks have been made out on the basis of $250 per year plus a fee for those aldermen serving on the board of review. No extra fee is paid for committee service.

Looks Like Press May Have to Go to Bat for Freedom of Radio

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—It looks as though the perfidious press will have to take over the fight to establish freedom of the radio, which the president, Mr. Farley and Mr. Ickes as often extol as an agency of pure expression. The radio companies live by license from a political bureau of the New Deal which has the power to harass, intimidate and, ultimately ruin them. They are, as a group, a dangerous rival of the newspapers, which have had to share with radio the advertising revenue which once was particularly all theirs. The press, therefore, has a selfish motive for wishing the worst of luck, but, ironically, finds itself compelled to assist its commercial rival in a feeble struggle against coercion and censorship lest a controlled radio be used as a propaganda arm to destroy the freedom of the press.

Although Mr. Roosevelt has said that in some communities untruth and exaggerated half-truth may be overtaken only by radio and Mr. Farley has declared that only by air may he present a case to the people unedited, radio finds itself afraid to urge its own case over its own medium. If radio did so it would necessarily attack the political agency of the New Deal which controls its conduct and issues the licenses by which it operates. If it did that it would displease its political bosses and risk painful or disastrous reprisals.

Says Radio Lives in An Uncertain and Risky State

Therefore, radio relies on the newspapers to present its case to the public, and it has been the press which has emphasized the hidden significance of the ruling of the communications commission which requires that international broadcasts must promote international good-will, understanding and co-operation. This ruling might be invoked to rule off the president and Mr. Ickes themselves—doubtless an unforeseen possibility—but if the same principle were applied to domestic broadcasts the broadcasters would be obliged to promote internal good-will, understanding and co-operation according to the commission's interpretation. Surely the commission would not regard criticism of the New Deal or itself, as a contribution to internal good-will, understanding and co-operation. In fact, in the press such criticism has been fiercely resented, and, for punishment, the New Deal has repeatedly praised the radio to the detriment of the papers but without explaining the uncertain and risky state in which radio lives under political control.

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. CORNELIUS A. HARPER
State Health Officer
The soliloquy of a modern Hamlet would go something like this: "T. B. or not T. B.; that is the question; Whether 'tis nobler in the lungs to suffer The rales and raspings of contagious phthisis Or to take steps against a sea of troubles, And by due treatment end them . . . 'Tis A consumption devoutly to be shunned . . . When he himself might his quietus halt, With simple Mantoux test, who would do else?"

Nearly all individuals are susceptible to tuberculosis, and children are much more likely to become infected than older people. Very few children, however, have active tuberculosis. The period in which latent tuberculosis usually becomes active is the latter part of the teens and early twenties.

Wisconsin's present tuberculosis prevention program is based on the conviction that every child who has reached the age of twelve years should receive the tuberculin test, a simple and painless procedure by which those who are susceptible to the disease are identified, and do thus place the further quest for active cases on a practical basis.

More than 50,000 rural Wisconsin children received the tuberculin test last year. Our state's urban population is approximately the same as the rural, the similar activity against tuberculosis is reported from our cities. This fight is going on steadily, with heartening results.

NEW SUDS HELPS
Color Stay in Stockings!

A SERIOUS CAUSE of faded stockings now found to be the alkali in soap suds. So suds your stockings with Vel, marvelous new hard-water suds made by Colgate for fine fabrics. Vel is not a soap. Contains no alkali to fade the delicate color of stockings. Makes big suds in cold water, thus ideal for all fine fabrics.

See Vel make mountains of billowy suds, yet it leaves no ring around the bowl, showing that Vel also leaves no soap-scum in fabrics to dull the sheen and cause that "cottony" look.

Ideal for all fine fabrics because Vel washes clean and gives a newer looking, thus they last longer and keep their silky luster.

NOW see stockings keep their delicate sheerness and fresh color, amazingly longer. See woolens and underwear regain bride-like freshness and color! Colored prints sing with radiant sparkle! Results are startling because science has found a way to make a wonderful new suds, called Vel, that contains no alkali to fade colors. And Vel can't form ruinous soap-scum to cause that "cottony" look in fine fabrics.

You can feel this slippery, slimy scum in soap suds. But these amazing new Vel suds feel soft and pure. That's because Vel is not a soap. It's a special new hard-water suds perfected by Colgate. It makes as much as 5 times more suds than expensive soap flakes in hardest water. And it makes hardest water act soft as rainwater.

Moreover Vel makes abundant suds in cold water—so Vel is ideal for fine fabrics.

You can see why Vel is better than the finest soap-flakes for fine fabrics, because Vel does not form a ring of soap-scum around the bowl. That proves Vel can't leave ruinous soap-scum in your stockings, underwear and woolens, to give dainty dress that "cottony" look, and because Vel contains no alkali, it helps colors keep fresh much longer.

So easy on hands, too, because Vel is neutral—contains no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin.

Even outlasts pure soap 2 to 1 in hardest water! Buy Vel today at grocers. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company.

TRY VEL AND YOU'LL NEVER GO BACK TO SOAP AND WATER SOFTENERS!

37 Boats Compete In Nodaway Yacht Club Sailing Race

Kellett's "Shadow" Defeats Shattuck Craft in Class A Event

Neenah—Thirty-seven sail boats, including 14 X-Boats, competed for honors in the second of the championship series of races of the Neenah Nodaway Yacht club Saturday and Sunday on Lake Winnebago. A smooth, southeast breeze Saturday fanned William Kellett's "Shadow" to a victory over "It At First," skippered by S. F. Shattuck, and "Onaway," piloted by Lyle Silp, in Class A race. The event took 1 hour, 58 minutes.

In the Class E race, Nick Gilbert's "Mibs" topped a win, crossing ahead of Robert Sage's "Goly Keu" in 1 hour 28 minutes. Arthur Crosson's "We're Here" was third, the "Jag" again, skippered by James Samsenbrenner, fourth, and Doug Tuchscherer's "Rainbow" fifth. William Gilbert, sailing "Pushover," defeated Ted Perry in "Black Rhythm" and Richard Thuckens in "Easy Goin'" in the Class C race.

Sandpiper Wins
Bob Kimberly skippered the "Sandpiper" to a win over Miami Mory, piloting "Creeping Charley," in the X-boat class. Charles Shepard piloted "Bluehill" to second place, Mary Shattuck in "We Too" third, Kate Gilbert in "Kaygee" fourth, Jack Renner in "Overdue" fifth, Bruce Pugh in "Katarupa" sixth, Ned Richter in "Clever Girl" seventh, Jane Samsenbrenner in "Jonipor, Jr." eighth, Nancy Kimberly and John Samsenbrenner in "Little Moon" ninth, Everett Williams in "Cambria" and Alice Bergstrom in "Swing It" tenth and eleventh respectively.

Bernie Smith in "Jinx" and William Wright in "Winsum" were third and fourth respectively. In the National class, Charles Zemlock sailed "Starfish" to a victory over Harold Mory in "Whiskaway" and Gerry Felton, piloting "Don't Ask," Bill Berger in "Nell," John Green in "Ho Hum" and Russell Johnson in "Viking" followed. James Hooper's "Misty" beat out John Christofferson in "Dip Tip" in the open class.

A strong, southeast wind assisted the sailors in Sunday's race.

Mibs Takes Another
The "Mibs" won again in the Class E race, defeating the "Goly Keu" in the last lap, while the "Jag" again was third. Crosson's "We're Here" took fourth, and the "Pushover" was fifth, winning from the "Black Rhythm."

In the X-boat class, the "Clever Girl" was first, winning from the "Jonipor, Jr.," "Sandpiper," "Bluehill," "Overdue," "Jean Sage" in "Cantagere," "Little Moon," "Creeping Charley," "Kaygee," "Ham Craig's" "Tramp," "Jean McNaughton's" "Lakely," "Fredericka Whiting's" "Wiki-Wiki" and the "Katarupa," which followed in that order.

The "Jinx" won the Cub class race, while the "Seabiscuit" was second and "Gone With the Wind" third. Robin Smith in "Sailor" took fourth, and Kim Stuart in "U-Too" was fifth. John Green won the National class race in "Ho Hum," defeating the "Star Dust."

The maximum pumpage in on 24-hour period was 10,185,000 gallons, while the minimum was 3,098,000 gallons.

Neenah Aldermen Getting Tired of Boulevard Fight

Mayor Quiets Council's Wrath, Suggests Further Negotiation

Neenah—Shades of the Munich agreement with Nicolet boulevard as the Czechoslovakia of the Twin Cities, stalked in Neenah's council rooms at a meeting of the city council last night and will hang around to visit the Menasha council chambers this evening when Menasha aldermen convene.

Members of Neenah's council let down their hair in heaping sarcasm on the Menasha council on the Nicolet boulevard problem at the meeting last night at the city hall, but it finally was agreed, after an hour's discussion, that the special committee, which had been appointed by Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, again should attempt further negotiations in an effort to settle the dispute.

Mayor Kalfahs became the Twin Cities' "man with the umbrella" as he engineered a conciliatory note in the verbal controversy. Alderman Knud Larsen made a motion to "drop the matter until Menasha makes a definite proposal," but the mayor said that by following this procedure, the Menasha council undoubtedly would take action at its meeting tonight to take out its side of the boulevard.

"That will make Menasha look bad as well as Neenah," the mayor pointed out.

Suggests Trade
Mayor Kalfahs suggested a counter proposal to the Menasha council and effect a trade, agreeing to permit Menasha to take out the 39 feet on the east end of the boulevard with Neenah taking out the three feet opposite Second, Fourth and Twelfth streets. And further, if Menasha fails to agree to a removal of a portion of the 18-foot terraces on both sides of the west end of the street instead of removing the center, that part of the problem be dropped entirely.

Alderman Larsen withdrew his first motion in favor of the mayor's suggestion. The discussion got underway and worked into a "white heat" when Alderman Carl Loehring reported on the unsuccessful meeting of the two special committees. He said that following the meeting, at which no agreement could be reached, the committee felt that the matter should stay as it is. "I imagine that Friday, after its council meeting, Menasha will have its trucks at the boulevard to remove its half. If they do, I'll fight against Neenah taking off one foot of its half from the east end. If they won't cooperate with us, why should we give them any consideration?"

Alderman Richard O'Brien said, "I'll die before I'll give them an inch." Alderman Buschey agreed with Alderman O'Brien, and he calmed that property owners on Nicolet boulevard, whom he said he had talked to, were in favor of removing the terrace instead of the boulevard center.

Alderman Larsen wanted to "stand pat and take out nothing," while Alderman James Andersen said that he talked with officials of St. Patrick's church and they said they weren't in favor of taking out the center section. Alderman Robert Mattens said, "Let Menasha take out its half and we'll forget it."

Alderman Andrew Andersen, a member of the special committee, said that he'd be willing to serve again on the committee although he wouldn't enjoy it.

Neenah Council Appropriates Funds for Doty Park Project

Neenah—The common council at a meeting last night at the city hall authorized the park board of commissioners to proceed with construction of the two tennis courts at Doty park as well as appropriated the necessary funds for building the courts.

City Clerk H. S. Zemlock read a recommendation from the park board that the bids of the Fluor Bros. Construction company, Oshkosh, $2,154 for the basic construction and that of the Wickett Lumber company, Neenah, for equipment, including fencing and posts, of $406 be accepted.

Alderman Robert Marton revived the problem of cleaning the slough, a matter which he has been legislating for during the last several years. # Eddie Smith Hurls First Victory Over Cleveland Indians

Chicago White Sox Hurler Allows Only Two Hits, Both Singles

CHICAGO —(AP)— Tow-headed Eddie Smith, who for three years has been trying to southpaw his way to victory over the Cleveland Indians, did it today in his tenth attempt—a two-hit performance which gave Chicago's White Sox a 2 to 1 triumph in the series opener.

Eric McNair's seventh inning homer off Harry Eisenstat broke a 1 to 1 tie and gave Smith the decision. Before being sold to the Sox this spring, Smith had lost eight straight to Cleveland as a Philadelphia Athletic pitcher. He dropped another in May hurling for the Sox.

Both Indians hits were singles and it was a double steal executed by Rollie Hemsey and Bruce Campbell that gave Cleveland its score in the sixth. With one out Hemsey singled and Campbell walked. Hemsey advanced as Ben Chapman fled to Rip Radcliff and scored on the double steal.

It was Chicago's fourth straight victory.

ROOKIE WINS NO. 10

New York —(AP)— The Yankees' vaunted power attack gave rookie Atley Donald his tenth consecutive victory of the season yesterday, 6 to 4, over Washington, although the Nationals matched the champions in every department except scoring.

All of the New York runs were bunched in the middle innings but it was the sixth that defeated Ken Chase. Senators' starting hurler Joe D'Amelio followed George Selkirk's single with a home run and Joe Gordon made up for a couple of errors with a circuit clout.

The Yankees scored once in the fourth on a walk, a single and a forceout and went ahead in the fifth with two runs on Gordon's double. Donald's triple and a passed ball.

British Tennis Fans Pick Riggs to Beat Cooke for Wimbledon Singles Honors

WIMBLEDON —(AP)— The British, who have been known to back the wrong horse, today established Bobby Riggs as a 2-1 favorite to beat the American and double partner Elwood Cooke, in the finals of the Wimbledon singles tennis championship tomorrow and they've got some good reasons for picking him.

First, they point out, Cooke has played Riggs 12 times and hasn't beaten him yet, and they argue no player was likely to overcome such a psychological handicap.

On the other hand, Cooke, by everybody's admission, is a better player than he was even two weeks ago.

Riggs' advantage over Cooke was not as great, either, as those 12 straight defeats suggest. In the last few months these two have met twice and both times the matches have gone to five sets.

This is the first all-American final since 1901 when Frank Shields defaulted to Sidney Wood—and it beats the British how America does it.

Says the cop on the dressing room door: "You lose Tilden and Wood and Vines and Budge but just the same you keep sending champions over."

PRESENT FOR COOKE

Wimbledon, England —(AP)— Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., a couple of grinning American boys who room together and even look something alike, turned Wimbledon's "world" championship into an exhibition of United States tennis yesterday by beating Ferenc Puncoc of Yugoslavia and Henner Henkel of Germany in the semi-finals.

Riggs annexed Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, and Cooke encircled Germany 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

These two upstarts sat in the stands and watched each other win and when Riggs staggered off the court with his 12 racquets he explained:

"Say we cooked up this all-American final last night as a birthday present for Cooke. He was 25 today and we figured we oughta celebrate."

Also Win In Doubles

Late in the day, Riggs and Cooke just managed to squeeze into the semi-finals of the men's doubles, where they meet that remarkable French pair, Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra. The Americans defeated England's George Patrick Hughes and H. Billington, 6-3, 3-6, 6-8, 6-2, 11-9.

United States Champion Alice Marble of San Francisco and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fry of Cambridge, Mass., got a chance to complete the American slam tomorrow when they meet Mrs. Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Denmark and Kay Stammers of England, respectively, in the semi-finals of women's singles.

There's something sublimely impudent about this cocky young American team. When Don Budge turned pro last year, the wise birds over here gathered around and decided the American tennis monopoly was broken. Whereupon Riggs, Cooke, Don McNeill, Gene Smith and company proceeded to take over the finals of the French championship and then monopolize Wimbledon. Not since Sidney Wood and Frank Shields went to the last round in 1931 with Wood winning by default has there been an all-American men's final and not since Ellsworth Vines came through in 1932 has an American won on his debut at Wimbledon.

Riggs Is Nonchalant

Riggs is easily the most nonchalant customer who ever graced the center court. He duck waddled out yesterday at 2:30 p. m., gave up his service in the first game and then proceeded to sweep the astonished Puncoc right off the court.

In some ways Cooke is even more surprising. Even the U. S. L. T. A. didn't think he was good enough to pay his full expenses over here but he eliminated top-seeded Bunny Austin and today looked like a champion in trimming Henkel.

beat for you. As a matter of fact, almost any doctor will tell you that it's good sense. My observation is that your own sense of comfort ought to convince you that the idea is right. Of course, the best advice of all is to keep going out all year around so that you never have time to soften up, but for most of us that's just a fond hope.

My chief object in dishing up this advice is that I would like to see you keep coming out. If you take it

State Open Golf Champion Will Show Monday Afternoon, July 10

Clintonville — Golf fans of this area will have a chance to see one of the best exhibitions this year at the Riverside golf course when Jimmy Milward, state open champion, plays next Monday afternoon, July 10, starting about 4 p. m. Milward and a partner from his home club, Black Hawk Country Club at Madison, will meet with four different men. The first nine holes one golfer from New London and one from Shawano will form his opposition. In the second round two golfers from Clintonville will show.

The names of his opponents have not as yet been announced but it is known that Don Greb will be one of the golfers playing for Clintonville. Greb is a sophomore at the University of Minnesota where he was a member of the Gopher golf squad. At the Riverside course Greb is 2-time winner of the club championship. The other golfer from Clintonville will be picked Sunday when the low medalist of the day will be chosen to team up with Greb.

The qualifying rounds for the Riverside club championship are being held and must be in by July 16. Greb is the defending champ and should he win the title again this year the silver trophy would become his property.

Cincinnati Should Remember What Happened to Pittsburgh

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK —(AP)— Max Schmeling can have a bout with the Nova-Galento winner if he wants it. . . Larry MacPhail's blast at the Messrs. Frick and Terry was luffed off by the locals as strictly a box office gag for the Giant-Dodgers weekend series. . . National Hockey league magnates are reported eyeing St. Louis (where crowds range from 8,000 to 12,000 per game) as a possible prospect for the big time circuit.

Keep calm.

Out in Cincinnati they're already worrying themselves sick over how they're going to handle the world's series crowds. . . Well, Pittsburgh was doing the same thing last August.

Joe Dugan, the old Yank, has sold his Bronx tap room and is peddling beer out of Boston. . . Jack Corbett, who recently sold the Syracuse Chiefs, is cooking up other baseball plans as he "unlaxes" out at Cod's Wyo. . . The Yanks may give Bob Meusel, the old outfielder, a managerial berth on a farm club.

Today's guest star. Art Cohn, Oakland (Cal.) Tribune: "On March 5, 1935, Tony Galento received $35 for fighting Larry Johnson at Elizbeth, N. J. . . on June 28, 1939, Galento received $50,000.53 for fighting Joe Louis. . . So a man doesn't let anything hanging around a bar, huh?"

Smart pro opinion is next week's P.G.A. winner will come from among Guldahl, Snead, Runyan, Nelson, Picard and Metz. . . Mickey Cochran has taken his family to a Montana ranch for a vacation. . . Boston papers still laughing at the way Casey Stengel needed the Giants up there. . . He had Danning and some of the others fit to be tied. . . National and American league all-star players will be invited to see Monday's round in the P.G.A. meet. . . Eddie Miller, the Bees' sensational shortstop, wears cheaters on the field.

Lookit, Joe.

Joe Louis isn't the only guy who can get up off the deck and slug 'em down. . . Russ Rolanson of the Crookston (Minn.) club of the Northern League, had his jaw fractured by a fast one hurled by Ralph Hendrix. . . Next time Rolanson faced Hendrix all he got was a homer, triple and two doubles.

Sandlot wild hoes. Murray Phillips of Clarksville, Texas, walked, swiped second and third and sneaked home a second before the last batter fanned, for a free ride round trip. . . And him a catcher!

Burton's 142 total was one stroke better than that posted by Martin Pose, Argentine stylist, who also turned in a one-under-par 72 on today's round. Best rounds of the day among the early finishers were glittering 71's carded by Johnny Bulla of Chicago and Syd Easterbrook, British veteran, who had 36-hole totals of 146 and 145 respectively.

Dick Burton Leading British Open Golfers

St. Andrews, Scotland —(AP)— Dick Burton, Ryder cup player from Cheshire, braved a strong west wind and negotiated the last nine holes in 34 to put together a round of 72 today and take the lead in the British open golf championship with a two-round total of 142.

Over St. Andrews course, the Briton was out in 38, no great score on the out-nine, but when faced by the twisting wind coming home he shone. He was three under par on the in nine, with birdies on the 12th, 15th, and 17th.

Accompanied by his son, George, Mr. Zachow went to Canada during the time of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, whom they saw at Windsor, Ontario. From there they went to New York, where they attended the world's fair. They also visited Washington, D. C., and Niagara Falls. Mr. Zachow talked to his fellow Rotarians about his trip and showed motion pictures which he took at the places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Metzger returned this week from a two weeks' motor trip to Yellowstone park and other places in the west. They were accompanied by the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Metzger of Ashland, who are spending several days here with relatives.

Display Draws Big Attendance

Between 8,000 and 10,000 See Tri-Village Fireworks Exhibit

Kimberly—From 8,000 to 10,000 persons saw the fireworks display on the Little Chute canal banks Monday evening. More than 2,000 cars were parked below the lull near the east village limits and along the route near Combined Locks. The Little Chute bridge was filled to capacity with people watching the display.

The program was sponsored by Little Chute, Combined Locks and Kimberly villages. A factory representative took charge of the display and sometimes had two and three scenes in the air at one time. The cost of the program was $500. Lloyd Lang, Kimberly village president said Tuesday that it is possible that even a greater display may be purchased next year.

With the sale and use of fireworks banned the village went through the quietest Fourth of July in its history.

Ray Larson and family spent the holidays visiting friends and relatives at Janesville.

A check for $132 was paid to the county clerk by Chief of Police John Bernhardt Tuesday. The money covers Kimberly's share of dog taxes.

YOUTH DROWNS

Seeks Free Textbooks

At Kimberly Meeting

Kimberly—Henry M. Williams, a voter, said Wednesday that he would make another effort for free textbooks at the annual school meeting of district No. 6 next Monday evening at the high school auditorium. Mr. Williams has made two unsuccessful attempts when he lectured on free information that shows that 90 school districts in the county now have free textbooks. Joseph Dupont who was elected to fill the unexpired term of John Van Elen, school treasurer, last year, will be up for reelection.

An airplane will be used in missionary work in Borneo, allowing workers to reach areas never before penetrated.

Drainage Connections To Sewers Prohibited
The city council last night instructed city officers to enforce the city ordinance and state code prohibiting the connection of roof drainage leads and down spouts with sanitary sewers. Roof drainage should be piped to storm sewers or should be allowed to run on to property so that the water may be carried away by storm sewers.

Scientists say activity required in "counting sheep" deters rather than encourages clumber.

Miss Dix Discusses Meaning Of That Newest Word 'Oomph'

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Most every young man has competition as far as girls are concerned. I have, and, realizing that I wasn't getting anywhere, I asked the young lady what was the matter with me, what my rival had that I didn't have. She replied that he has what is known in these modern times as "oomph," which neither she nor I can define. But a friend tells me that it means a good dancer, personality, character and one who knows how to make love. But the girl says these do not fit her definition of "oomph." You will do me a great favor if you will tell me what "oomph" is, as my one desire is to acquire it. Since it isn't dancing or good looks or money, what other things does a girl desire in a boy? I can't figure it out. PUZZLED LAD.

Answer:

Nobody can define the meaning of "oomph" because it doesn't mean anything that you can put your finger on. It is only a senseless word originated by jitters in an attempt to express the indescribable. And if you will recall that some years ago the novelist, Elinor Glyn, used the word IT in attempting to describe the personal fascination that some men and women have that attracts every one they meet to them. The general public took it that she meant to indicate only sex appeal with that glittering euphemism, and with that meaning it has passed into general use. But Mrs. Glyn said truthfully that sex appeal was only a small part of IT and that it included also spiritual qualities, such as sympathy and imagination, enthusiasm and a sensitiveness that made its happy possessor instinctively know what to do and say on every occasion.

I think that is what is meant by "oomph." It is the fascination that every one has that draws every one to them. It has nothing to do with beauty or brains or character. It is just the Doctor Fell feeling that makes us like one person and dislike another and the reason why we cannot tell.

In its perfection "oomph" is a gift that his Fairy Godmother drops in a boy baby's cradle. It is what makes him a lady-killer later on in life. But if you were passed over don't despair, because it will save you a lot of girl trouble and in the end you will find one who prefers a good, steady, reliable provider to a thrill. And, anyway, not all girls like the same brand of "oomph." Many of them are allergic to glib love-makers and prefer a chap with a line that is less spectacular and that sounds more trustworthy.

So my advice to you is to concoct your own variety of "oomph." If you will compound it with equal parts of devotion and understanding and sympathy I think your girl will fall for it. For what women want most is understanding. They want a man who is interested in their souls as well as their bodies; a man who tries to find out why they do the way they do. That is why preachers and doctors are such wows with the fair sex.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am 42 years old. Four years ago I married a widow with three children. I had two. Two years later we had a son. Now we have six children. I have a fine husband and a nice home. Incidentally, I did not come penniless to my husband. My mother lives with us and she is a big help with the children. Also I have a good maid. My problem is this: I am nervous and tired most of the time and not easy to get along with. I go to pieces at times. This condition is not due to overwork, but from the mental strain of managing and supervising everything that goes on in the house. The doctors think I should go away for a rest and change for a month. My husband is not in sympathy with this plan and says that with all the help I have I should be able to carry on. He says that he works hard and gets no change at rest. That is true and yet he belongs to several interesting clubs and has many outside contacts. He does not want me to join any clubs or have any outside interests. He cannot understand why I should feel the need of anything other than my home and children. I do not want to shirk my duty and I love my family devotedly, but I just can't seem to enjoy and appreciate them in my present state of health. What is your advice? M.B.A.

Answer:

I honestly believe that the crying need of domesticity is change, and that the answer to the way to solve the divorce problem is railroad tickets.

Domesticity is harder on women than it is on men because men get

Finesse Is Only a 50-50 Proposition

Pass 5 clubs Pass 5 no trump

Pass 7 clubs Pass Pass

"North opened a small trump.

After studying the hand I saw that there were two alternative lines of play. One was to look for five club tricks, three diamonds, and two hearts, which would require the spade finesse to be successful for the rest of the tricks, and the other plan was to look for five clubs, two hearts, and a heart ruff, with only one spade. This, of course, would involve establishing the diamond suit for at least four tricks. I had no slide rule at hand with which to figure mathematically the percentages offered by this dilemma, and being unable to operate one anyway, proceeded to puzzle over the possibilities for some time.

I finally decided that the second plan was the safer and more professional in that the spade finesse would be avoided.

"I won the opening lead with dummy's club jack, led a low diamond to my queen, cashed one more round of trumps, then played to the king and back to the ace of hearts, preparatory to ruffing a third heart in dummy, after which I was going to ruff a small diamond with the king, enter dummy with the spade queen, and attempt to run the diamond suit. Unfortunately, a loud wail arose from my partner when the second heart lead was ruffed by South, and there then ensued all sorts of recriminations because I had not simply drawn trumps and taken the winning spade finesse. I still am of the opinion that my plan was correct. What do you think or, rather, what are the percentages?"—F. R. R., St. Louis."

The declarer played this hand absolutely correctly and his failure was due to the toughest sort of luck. It would have been the height of folly to have taken the alternative plan of ruffing a heart and playing for four diamond tricks was available. First, it was almost inconceivable that declarer could run into trouble in the heart suit (although he actually did), and second, there was an excellent chance that the diamond suit would produce four tricks with the help of one ruff in the closed hand. As a matter of fact, the only lay of cards that would fail to produce four diamond tricks would be for either opponent to hold five or more diamonds headed by the jack.

It is all very well to criticize the play of a hand after it develops that a certain finesse could have been taken successfully, but it should be borne in mind that finesses are only 50-50 propositions. If by South instead of North, I am looking at the matter of "recriminations" never would have come up.

going to spoil everything. We've been best friends for years and I've known his people my whole life long. Oh, Mrs. Post, can't you understand?"

Answer: Yes, I think I understand perfectly and I agree that suddenly making a fuss would be exactly like breaking something of great value. It was entirely natural to do exactly what you did; and having gone into the house and then leave promptly, but casually. On the other hand, I can also understand your mother's attitude. I think, however, that she will give you another answer if you explain your point of view as you did to me. In other words, I doubt whether she would want you to make the mistake of bringing self-consciousness into your spontaneous friendship with her or any other boy. At the same time this does not mean that I think it a good idea to keep on running into

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

If you happen to be one of the thousands of women who are sensitive to one food or another you are quite likely to have a beauty problem on your hands. If you eat of the offending food your face may break out in blemishes, or your skin into a rash, even as late as two days after you have eaten it! If you have a strong sensitivity to some foods (or several) your body may react so violently that it becomes bloated, your features distorted, your digestive track becomes upset and almost any symptom of disease might show itself. For doctors claim that food allergies have been known to masquerade as many other diseases, but once your diet is changed scientifically, the symptoms disappear.

If you are one of these unfortunate (and seven per cent of the population are allergic) you should hunt for substitute foods for those which cause you such discomfort and destroy your poise and beauty. There is a new book which will help you greatly with your problem if you cannot afford the expert services of a physician who understands allergy.

This book "You Can't Eat That" by Helen Morgan has a foreword endorsement by Dr. Walter C. Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic, (who has done a great deal of research on allergies) and several other prominent diet authorities have contributed to the needed tome.

"Allergy," what it is, what causes it and how it is diagnosed, and treated, is clearly and simply explained so that any victim may become generally familiar with the subject.

The second part of the book is devoted to tasty recipes, the ingredients of which are substitutes for foods which are common offenders such as milk, chocolate, egg, coffee and wheat. Of course there are many other uncommon food allergies which are considered.

You may be able to detect your own pet allergy without the long ordeal of "skin tests" which frequently do not report a positive result. Miss Morgan and Doctor Alvarez tell you how to go about it. Just eat and eat and eat and eat just what substitutes are for you once you make your discovery. Part three of the book is "Food Information for Allergies" and is devoted to telling you what is in canned and prepared foods—just in case the producer has not told you clearly on the wrapping of the products.

Not To Be Slighted

"In a few cases," reports Miss Morgan, "the food that proves so upsetting is something that's rarely eaten, such as lobster or urchin nuts, and then a person is apt to diagnose his own trouble and there, after avoid the offender. But in the majority of cases the trouble is due to something people eat all the time, and then not one in a million realizes what's wrong!"

"Doctors know that foods strike first at the infant; foods are responsible for nearly all the eczema that torments the young, and this sensitivity reaches its height when the baby is nine months old. If he is not weaned, the child will be thoroughly irritable by the time he is three years old. He has nightmares, can't concentrate, snifles and whines. He has—the doctor would know it, but the mother does not—developed a sensitivity to airborne substances, such as dust and pollen. To make matters worse, he comes down with whooping cough! If he is not treated the child goes right on being sensitive to air-borne substances and probably to foods."

The Home Gardener

By Edwin H. Perkins

Cutworms play havoc with tender plants during the early summer months. Few flower gardens or vegetable plots escape their ravages. Since they hide during the day and make their appearance only at night, few of us see them at work, but the results of what they have done during the night in the early morning hours.

Probably the best remedy for cutworms is to hunt the worms at night with a lantern. They will be found at work on the plants or in the soil immediately surrounding them.

A second plan, and one nearly as effective, is to kill them by the use of poisoned greens. For this method cut tender greens into tiny bits, then dust them with Paris green. Little piles of these placed here and there in the garden are rapidly consumed to our benefit and the cutworms' detriment. Poison bran is also a very good store for this purpose. The bran should be moistened to form a mash, then set around in piles between the plants just before nightfall. Fresh mashes attract more cut worms than stale mashes.

If the plants that need protection are not numerous, they can be protected by placing small scraps of bent tin or waxed cardboard about the stems. These protectors will prove effective until the plants become strong enough to resist attack.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Here is a man who is too good to be successful. This sounds paradoxical but it is true. He will always engender hostility as an accounting employee, though he would be very successful as the boss of such a firm. An accountant with sales ability is usually hated by his introverted co-workers.

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Psychologist, Northwestern University

CASE N-182: Warren C., aged 33, is a public accountant.

"I took a job with a large firm about a year ago," he began. "I got along famously. In fact, my boss was so impressed with the ease with which I won the good will of our clients, that he gave me a salary boost of $25 per month after I had been there only six weeks."

"Several of the clients for whom I worked wrote very strong letters of commendation regarding my work for them. But these very letters of praise and my salary increase actually worked against me. In the first place, the accountants who had been with this firm before I joined it, grew very reluctant to work with me. They thought I was a "show-off" and that I was trying to get ahead of them. They also thought I was a "snob" and that I was looking down on them.

Warren is a superior man who is thereby a misfit as an employee in an organization where the old civil service, orderly advancement is in vogue.

Warren is aggressive and a go-getter. His accounting colleagues are placidly going along waiting for a small, annual salary increase. They don't expect to get anywhere until the men ahead are either promoted or else die.

Warren has boundless energy and drive. He thinks in big terms. He refuses to fritter away his life waiting for less competent but older men to die and thus leave their positions open for him.

People in non-competitive fields, appreciate Warren's driving energy and ability. But those in his own profession are hostile to him, because he shows them up, so to speak.

Dynamic Personalities
Fortunately for society, we always have thousands of these aggressive go-getters to prod our complacency and act as spurs to the sluggards.

They become organizers of labor movements, or captains of industry, or scientists and inventors, composers and poets, for there is great similarity among superior men regardless of their widely different professions.

I urged Warren to take the sales job, for there he can drive ahead on merit without having to be hamstrung by civil service inertia. If he sells more merchandise, he'll be paid the largest salary or commission, despite older salesmen with longer experience. A salesman also has a personal clientele

Parents Can Aid Children if Others are Picking on Them

BY ANGELO PATRI

The three little girls were playing merrily when Louella, another member of their set, appeared in the yard. Immediately, Roseanne, a newcomer to the neighborhood, bright and vivacious, self confident and aggressive, drew the two friends close to her and whispered, "Don't let's play with Louella. Let's make believe we're mad at her."

Without a thought the two erstwhile friends of the outcast, followed Roseanne's lead, withdrew from the shocked Louella, arms about each other, heads together, whispering busily. Gazing after them with disbelieving eyes the hurt child stood still where she was for a few minutes. Then, the full weight of her isolation falling upon her spirit, she wheeled and raced for home.

"Mother, mother, what shall I do? What shall I do? My friends won't speak to me. They won't play with me 'cause Roseanne told them not to."

Mother, quite as shocked as her little daughter, stopped work and took her on her lap. "There, there, it can't be as bad as that. You have been friends for all the days of your life. Don't cry. We will have to think about this and see what it means and then do something about it. You won't be left alone no matter what happens. It's time we had a cup of tea. Get out your tea cups and the milk and I'll get us some cookies and we will talk this over. Maybe Susie would like to come over? Call her on the telephone and see."

Susie, a good-natured little cousin, was always ready to come over and soon the little tea party was in full swing. "Let's, hurry up and clear away the tea things now, and set the table, and get all ready for father, and I'll get out the car and we'll all drive down to meet him. That will be a fine surprise." So said, so done.

All the while she was busy directing her little daughter's thoughts from her cruel experiences of the afternoon, mother's mind had been busy. She would help Louella to be casual about this, to indicate that she was quite happy without her late playmates, thoroughly enjoying herself to all appearances. "They will have to think that she doesn't need them. That's all."

For the next three days mother kept Louella so happily occupied, taking up all her spare time with little social gestures, a visit to the city, a new doll house, a visitor from out of town, a party for this visitor to which the three offenders were usually invited to attend along with the five other children. "You just look after these five and you can let the other three make themselves at home because they are old friends in the house. Give your attention to the newer ones so they will feel at home," said mother, hoping that she was heading things in the right direction.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

Chapter One
Game In Hands
I was hot, not enough to melt the bristles off an aluminum pig. Manhattan, with its network of streets and towering buildings, might have been likened unto a waffle-iron. Such of the citizenry as were abroad moved without enthusiasm, the male representation of the human boiler-plate with straw hats. Even the motor cars seemed affected. They rolled slowly through clouds of steamy glaze that danced off their radiators and their horns made ho-hum sounds. June in New York! Heatwave time in Gotham!

On the terrace of a building high above Fifth Avenue sat four young gentlemen in white linen suits. A table separated these gentlemen one from the other and upon the table were two decks of cards, and four tall, frosty, lemon-colored glasses. For this terrace was part of the drinking arrangements provided for the membership of the exclusive Penguin Club and the young gentlemen were all Penguins in more or less good standing.

Under an awning in a corner of the terrace was a small bar whose presiding deity was one Gus, a citizen in a white coat. All afternoon Gus had been watching the most desultory of desultory bridge games with languid eye, but leaving his post behind the bar only to refill the tall glasses with more of the lemon-colored liquid as need arose.

As a creator of the Collins Bros. John and Tom Collins showed to none. And during heat waves like this whenever anything at all was waving around the Penguin Club, Gus was unquestionably the most popular man in the establishment.

At the bridge table Tacks Adams was dealing. Tacks had keen gray eyes that appeared to look out upon this world and find it vastly amusing. Separated from the eyes by a wide, smooth forehead was a wave of wavy black hair. Below the eyes was a straight nose, a good size in mouth and a knife jaw which proclaimed that, given certain circumstances, Mr. Tacks Adams would stand no fooling. An overlay of tan did something extra special for these rather pleasant natural arrangements. Looking at Tacks you would have said that there was a tall, rangy young man on the sunny slopes of thirty, a young man who'd gone in plentifully for athletics at—well, Groton and Harvard. You'd have been all straight except the Groton and Harvard. Tacks was Andover and Yale.

The Groton and Harvard entry half-sat, half-reclined, directly across the table from Tacks, a drowsy expression upon his aristocratic countenance. This was Van Harkness. Even in semi-repose Mr. Harkness contrived to give an impression of extreme elegance. He was, indeed, a lily of the field. You visualized him sauntering carelessly through life which he can use as leverage for prying loose bigger salary or better jobs. The usual salaried worker lacks such leverage.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions of psychology and problems. Write him, in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs. Letters and readers' names are never published.

"Two hearts," said Tacks Adams, finding his mitt full of high class red ones.

Bill Steele, who sat on Tacks' left passed. Then it was that Van Harkness distinguished himself.

"Bye me," said Van sleepily.

Tacks glared at him. "Did you or did you not," he inquired, icily polite, "ever hear of a demand bid?"

"Eh?" grunted Mr. Harkness. "Oh, nothing," said Tacks. "Skip it. These guys'll go home with our shirts, that's all."

"Anybody who wants my shirt today," said Van, waking up, "can have it."

The fourth member of the most desultory of desultory bridge games spoke. Mr. Jumbo Cutler was short in stature, round and moon-faced. Like Tacks Mr. Cutler was a son of Old Eli. He wiped the moonface now with a huge monogrammed handkerchief and brought forth a platitude.

"Gee, it is hot," he remarked. "Copyright that one," suggested Tacks. "I doubt if anyone else in New York has thought to say that today."

"Funny guy, aren't you?" Jumbo said.

Bill Steele, Jumbo's partner, hunched his great shoulders. Mr. Steele hailed from California where they make 'em big, brawny and breezy. In his collegiate days Bill had been stationed at football for Stanford and out on the Coast they still talked of the horrible havoc he had wrought with opposing lines. It was not Mr. Steele's custom, however, to carry his berserk tendencies of the gridiron into private life. For ordinary usage he was an affable, if cumbersome, gentleman with corn-colored hair and kindly, blue eyes.

"What about the bridge game?" rumbled Bill.

"Nuts," said Jumbo. "Sure," Tacks said. "Nuts. With you birds a couple of thousand up? Just watch us quit!"

"What's a couple of thousand to a trecoon like you?" grinned Steele. "Plenty," said Tacks. "You keep forgetting, William, that the three of us are depression babies. We're used to be the idle rich back in the golden twenties, but now we're just the idle. You Westerners don't understand, of course. When you're rich you're so darn rich your pants are lined with gold-leaf."

"Whose pants?" Bill Steele wanted to know.

"Well, let's quit anyway!" Van Harkness dropped his cards. "I'm fed up with this game. How about paving 'em Tacks?"

"No," Tacks said. "Besides, if we don't play bridge what will we do?"

"Don't want to play," Bill Steele spread his hands. "Don't want to quit. It's an impasse."

"No bid," said Jumbo Cutler suddenly. "Let him get stuck with his couple hearts!"

"Fiat," said Tacks. "Another station tunes in. Okay Bill, give a lead!"

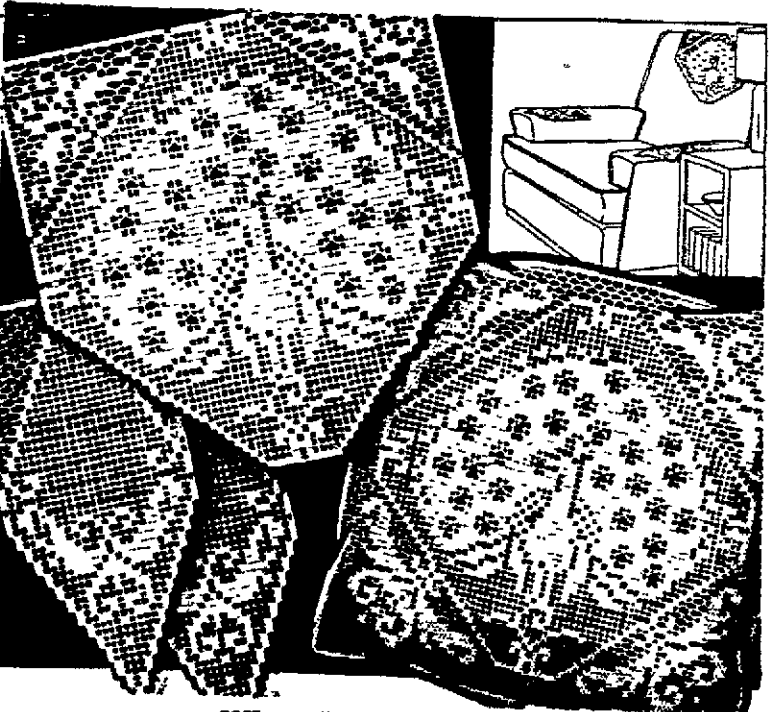

Tacks dropped the ace of spades to Bill Steele and then, with Harkness's hand, was able to lay them down.

"See there!" he said bitterly. "See how you fumbled the ball?" Bill Steele's eyes swept the table.

"North, South, East and West."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of these gnawing, burning, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains or are often caused by tired kidneys—may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, head aches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your doctor for Doan's pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FACTS ABOUT OWLS
Owls of one kind or another are found in almost every part of the earth. They live in the frigid zones, also on islands and other bodies of land in the torrid zone.

A tawny owl.
For the most part, these birds rest in the daytime and go about at night. They seem to be "dazzled" if suddenly brought into bright sunlight, but they have high seeing power at night. This is because their eyes have large pupils which let in what little light there may be at night. When there is no moon, and only a little starlight, and owl can see clearly.

The power of seeing at night is of great value to owls in seeking their food. They live chiefly on mice, bats, birds, insects, moles, shrews and the like. Some of the larger kinds eat rats as well as mice.

By keeping track of the feathers, bones and fur left around nests of certain owls, scientists have learned a great deal about the victims of owls. In and near a nest of tawny owls were the remains of six rats, 18 birds, 12 mice and 48 moles. A barn owl's nest showed the remains of three rats, 16 bats, 22 birds, 237 mice, and many shrews.

Owls have nests of many kinds. The short-eared owl and snowy owl put sticks and grass together on the ground. Some other kinds of owls try to find hollows in trees for their nests, and still others make use of nests built by crows, magpies and squirrels. The long-legged burrowing owl spends much of its time under the ground, often nesting in holes which were made by badgers, ground squirrels or prairie dogs.

In many parts of Europe, from Norway to Italy, live tawny owls. They also are found in Asia Minor and in a few places in northern Africa. They are common in England and Scotland, where people hear them calling "hoo-hoo" or "too-whoo" through the night.

About 200 kinds of owls are known. The largest are about 24 inches long, the smallest only five or six inches long.

Owls look at an object with both eyes at once. That is something most kinds of birds cannot do. Since the eyes of owls are fixed in place, almost as if they were sewed on buttons, the birds must turn their heads around to look at anything beside them.
